FARM PICKETING BEYOND CONTROL; 7 MEN ARRESTED

Officials Induced to Free Agrarian by Mob of 1,000.

3 KHAKI SHIRTS JAILED IN IOWA

Three Governors Asked to Clear Roads; Capital Periled.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Seven men, four of them members of an unemployed war veterans' organization known as the Khaki Shirts, were arrested today in connection with farmers' holiday activities, which continued to grow in scope and seriousness in several parts of Iowa.

In Cherokee County, northwest Iowa, 1,000 farmers marched on the Cherokee County Courthouse and demanded of county officials they ignore charges of obstructing a highway filed last week against I. A. I. Birch, Marcus farmer. The officials agreed to the request.

After meeting in a Cherokee park, the holiday adherents blockaded all roads into that city following refusal of merchants there to close their business.

Clashes Are Frequent.

Detention of the Khaki Shirts in the Polk County Jail and the filing of charges of malicious injury to property were episodes of a day marked by extension of picketing to Fort Dodge and two eastern Iowa points, injuries to several persons and frequent clashes with authorities.

The Chamber of Commerce at Sioux City, Iowa, where the drive first broke out into active measures two weeks ago, informed the Governors of Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota that picketing about that city was "beyond the control of local authorities." The chambers asked the executives to take immediately "such steps as will again make it possible to those who so desire to travel the highways."

The Farmer-Labor Governor of Minnesota, Floyd B. Olson, who has frequently expressed his sympathy for the holiday movement to bring higher prices by a refusal to sell farm produce at less than production costs, announced he would propose to the conference of fifteen agricultural States' governors at Sioux City, September 9 a giant central union. It would embody the farm cooperatives of the States concerned and, the governor said, afford a strong additional lever for the farmers in raising the price levels.

Armed Escorts for Trucks.

At Des Moines one picket was slugged and the timely arrival of Sheriff Charles F. Keeling's deputies averted what gave indications of being an open battle between 50 men hired by a cooperative association and a crowd of pickets massed on a narrow bridge.

All but three highways into Des Moines were guarded by throngs of pickets, and from a dozen quarters came calls to Sheriff Keeling for armed escorts and reports of slugings and fights.

Members of the Khaki Shirts, who were aiding the striking farmers, said 500 recruits from Sioux City were expected here to aid in setting up what holiday adherents hoped would be an absolute highway blockade of Des Moines and surrounding Polk County.

Armed escorts were needed to rush the trucks bearing farm produce

200 Manchukuoan Troopers Mutiny

Commander Is Executed; Mukden Sends Planes After Raiders.

Kirin, Manchuria (Tuesday), Aug. 30 (U.P.).—Two hundred Manchukuoan troopers stationed at the north barracks mutinied today. After executing their commander, they burned the barracks and fled with arms and munitions. Gen. Wang Te-Lin, leader of a so-called bandit army, was believed to have instigated the mutiny.

Mukden, Manchuria, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Japanese air bombers were sent out from Mukden today with orders to attack concentrations of Chinese guerrillas blamed for the series of raids which caused terror throughout the city last night. The Chinese troops were reported to have taken up positions at Run Hopu, 4 miles from Mukden.

During the morning the city's entire fire department succeeded in conquering fires at the large arsenal and the airplane base, which had been set by the raiders. There were no explosions at the arsenal and about the only damage at the base was the loss of several old ships.

New Red Plot Against Spain Is Discovered

Madrid, Aug. 29 (U.P.)—A widespread plot against the republic, attributed to Communist leaders, was discovered tonight by police authorities investigating activities of eight extremists who were arrested last week.

Police said the plot was designed to take advantage of discontent among both Communists and Royalists as a result of the sentencing of Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, monarchist rebel leader.

The Communist plot included an uprising against the government, the assassination of high authorities and the burning of government buildings, police said.

It was scheduled for September 4 and delegates were still arriving in Madrid from various provinces when police discovered it. Three delegates were expected here from abroad to aid in the outbreak.

Government authorities pointed out, however, that the Communist organization in Spain is not as strong as was indicated by the plans. The Spanish Communists are divided into three factions, and the faction controlled by the Moscow Communist International recently was bitterly criticized by the parental body for failure to do anything in Spain.

MA FERGUSON LEADS BY MERE 220 VOTES

Gov. Sterling Trailing, With 35 of 254 Counties Yet Tabulating.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson assumed a lead of 220 votes over Gov. Ross S. Sterling tonight on the basis of tabulation of 945,182 votes in Saturday's Democratic gubernatorial run-off primary.

The candidates' totals:

Ferguson, 472,701; Sterling, 472,481.

The changes which swung the pendulum in favor of Mrs. Ferguson after Sterling had led all day were accounted for in two corrections which netted the woman candidate 921 votes and, in returns which continued to seep in slowly.

The Texas election bureau compilation accounted for figures from all of Texas' 254 counties, but returns were complete from only 219. That left 35 counties to continue to contribute returns slowly in the most amazing primary election the State ever has seen.

The unofficial election bureau, after announcing it would close for the night, maintained a skeleton force to tabulate any other returns available. It was pointed out that all precincts excepting those extremely remote and inaccessible had reported.

The vote had veered and swayed from the incumbent to Mrs. Ferguson in such dramatic manner that A. F. Henning, head of the Texas election bureau, declined to forecast either the possible outcome of the race or the probable total vote.

Boy, 17, Killed in Fall From Peak in Colorado

Estes Park, Colo., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Gray Secor, jr., 17, was killed today when he fell from hazardous east face of Longs Peak.

Secor, son of a well-known Longmont, Colo., attorney, was in an unguided party.

WALKER LOSES COURT APPEAL OVER HEARINGS

Judge Holds Governor Has Legal Power of Removal.

SOME CONTENTIONS OF LAWYER UPHELD

Death of Mayor's Brother Causes Postponement Until Friday.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A State Supreme Court justice today turned down James J. Walker's plea for a court order to stop Gov. Roosevelt from acting on the demands for the ouster of the New York mayor.

The justice, Ellis J. Staley, ruled that "the Governor of the State is immune from interference by judicial process and free from judicial control in his performance of executive duties."

The governor, said the opinion of the jurist, also acted within his legal rights in giving a hearing to the charges against the mayor.

"The conclusion is obvious," said Justice Staley, "that the authority conferred upon the governor under the New York City charter (providing for removal of a mayor by a governor) is a valid enactment and that such enactment exists in full force and effect and gives the governor jurisdiction of the subject matter."

Ruling on Testimony.

Justice Staley, who on several previous occasions has been called to rule in cases involving the fundamentals of New York's constitution, held, however, "the requirement for a fair trial and the provisions of section 34 of the public officers law do not countenance, in my judgment, the wholesale receipt and use of testimony taken by an investigating committee, where the accused officer has not been represented by counsel or afforded the opportunity for cross-examination." John J. Curtin, Walker's attorney, said this upheld one of his major contentions before Gov. Roosevelt and before the court.

Walker and Curtin demanded of the

Smith Is Neutral In California Race

Denies Supporting Senate Candidate as Bitter Campaign Ends.

San Francisco, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A primary campaign enlivened by a bitter feud in Democratic ranks and attracting national interest in the contests for both the Democratic and Republican nominations for U. S. senator closed in California today, with a record registration of voters eligible to decide the issues tomorrow.

A last minute report that Alfred E. Smith had entered the campaign by urging support of Justus S. Wardell as against William G McAdoo for the Democratic senatorial nomination was denied in New York by Smith. The report, Wardell campaign managers said, in making it public, was brought back to San Francisco by David F. Supple, local fraternal leader and one of the unsuccessful slate of Smith delegates at the May primary election.

The report was called to Smith's attention by Maurice M. McCarthy, a third candidate for the senatorial nomination, and in denying it Smith quoted a telegram he sent Wardell on August 24 saying: "I have decided that any interference by me in the primary will be misunderstood."

Haizlip Sets Record For Coast-to-Coast

Capt. James G. Haizlip, left, and Capt. Roscoe Turner, who crossed the continent yesterday in approximately 11 hours, each in a separate plane. Capt. Haizlip smashed Maj. James H. Doolittle's record.

Flies From Los Angeles to New York in 10 Hours 19 Minutes.

Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A new speed record for transcontinental flying was set today when Capt. James G. Haizlip, winning the cross-country derby to Cleveland, flashed on to New York in an elapsed time of 10 hours 19 minutes from Los Angeles.

Right behind was Capt. Roscoe Turner, third at Cleveland, who likewise came on here. Turners' time from sea to sea was 10 hours 57 minutes, but while he fell behind Haizlip he bettered the 11-hour 15-minute mark Maj. James H. Doolittle set just a year ago.

By leading four contestants into Cleveland Haizlip won the derby trophy and $6,750 in prize money, and he copped $2,500 more with his new transcontinental record.

Turner was disappointed, when he arrived here at 5:27 p. m. (Eastern standard time) to find Haizlip had been in for 23 minutes, but he

CABINET OF BOLIVIA QUITS IN CHACO ROW

Action Comes Soon After Neutrals Seek Truce With Paraguay.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Minister of Government Enrique Herizog announced tonight that the Bolivian cabinet had resigned and it was generally believed that a non-partisan ministry would be formed.

Members of the cabinet were holding a protracted session with the thought of reaching an accord on the terms of their resignations. The government was formed last March and has had a difficult struggle with internal problems and an acceptable foreign policy.

Shortly before this action was taken Foreign Minister Juan M. Zalles received a note from the commission of neutrals in Washington asking the government to sign a 60-day truce with Paraguay, effective September 1, to permit arbitration of the Gran Chaco conflict.

"In view of the extreme gravity of the Chaco situation," the note said, "the neutral countries working on behalf of South American peace request that Paraguay and Bolivia immediately authorize their delegates in Washington to sign on September 1 a 60-day suspension of all hostilities."

Before Minister of Foreign Affairs Juan Zalles could reply, the Liberal ministers in the cabinet presented their resignations, it was learned from an authoritative source, and other ministers followed suit.

CAPITAL IS STIRRED BY NOMURA'S VISIT

Japan's Gesture Intended to Harmonize Views of Two Nations.

(Associated Press.)

Japan's action in sending one of its foremost naval officers to the United States on an unofficial good will mission stirred considerable interest and speculation yesterday in official Washington.

As an evidence of the informality of the impending visit of Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, State Department officials pointed out that the first word they had of it came through the Tokyo press dispatches.

Observers of international affairs saw several points on which informal, good-humored discussion might bring Japanese and American views closer together.

The Japanese press is particularly agitated about the prolonged tour of the United States Atlantic Fleet in Pacific waters and reports that it will remain in the Pacific all this winter. At the Navy Department it was stated yesterday that no decision has been made as to whether the Atlantic Fleet will stay in the Pacific after October 1.

Manchukuo, the Japanese-sponsored state newly created in Manchuria, may be recognized by Japan before the admiral reaches this country, and the Lytton commission is due to leave the Orient for Geneva early next month to make its report to the League of Nations on the whole

The Business Upturn

Textile Mills Placing Orders for Supplies and Repair Parts; Line Reports Increase in Freight Traffic; Demand for Motor Trucks Improves.

(Associated Press.)

Optimistic business developments yesterday were:

Danielson, Conn.—Textile mills are preparing for greater activity by placing orders in increasing volume for supplies and repair parts, said W. Ireving Zullard, treasurer of the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing Co., makers of loom equipment.

Baltimore—Return of 1,000 men Thursday to work in the main repair shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was announced at the office of Charles W. Galloway, vice president in charge of operations. Two-thirds of the men will report at the Mount Clare shops in Baltimore and the remainder at the repair shops at Cumberland, Md., and Glenwood and Du Bois, Pa. Most of the men returning to work were placed on a furlough on August 16. The returning shopmen will continue to work on a 40-hour week basis, five days a week.

Washington—Rayon exports in the first seven months of this year were reported by the Commerce Department to be greater than any previous full-year shipments.

Chicago—The Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul & Pacific Railroad reported freight traffic on its lines soared nearly 9 per cent over the preceding week, cars handled numbering 22,939, a gain of 1,927.

Chicago—Dow, Jones & Co., business news publishers, said improved demand for motor trucks has brought an August upturn for the truck industry in advance of the normal September seasonal rise.

Bridgeport, Conn.—McKesson & Robbins recalled 600 employes and increased operating hours from three to five days a week here.

New York—Following an initial impulse from London, the New York Rubber Exchange witnessed one of the most impressive openings in months, rubber advancing to about ½ cent a pound over Friday's close.

Philadelphia—Gotham Silk Hosiery Co. announced immediate opening of its plant here, providing employment for approximately 2,000. The plant has been closed two years. Two other factories here, and others in Dover, Del., and New York City, will be reopened within two weeks.

New Bedford, Mass.—Employment was furnished 450 persons when the Booth Manufacturing Co. resumed production. The Booth mill normally employs 700 textile workers. More than 3,000 applied for work at the

CRITICS ARE HIT BY DEMOCRATIC R. F. C. MEMBER

Achievements of Board Highly Praised by Jesse H. Jones.

10 PER CENT OF LOANS ARE ALREADY REPAID

Corporation Is Held Major Factor in Avoiding Complete Collapse.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Repudiating the bitter partisan attack on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by the Democratic leadership in the House during the last weeks of Congress, Jesse H. Jones, senior Democratic member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation board, lauded the achievements of the emergency credit organization last night over a Nation-wide radio chain. He praised the constructive purposes of the act, characterized the administrative personnel as tireless patriots "intent upon rendering a real service" and expressed unqualified confidence that the broad program for cooperation between government, finance and industry launched at last week's business conferences here would quickly stimulate increased industrial activity and employment.

As evidence of considerable relaxation in the national credit situation during the last month, he cited the fact that as of August 25 slightly more than 10 per cent of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans advanced since February to banks, railroads and insurance companies already had been repaid.

$1,103,896,000 Advanced.

Since its organization, the corporation has advanced $1,103,896,000 in loans, exclusive of individual seed loans to farmers. Of this amount a total of $136,951,000 had been repaid by August 25.

"For the managing force," said Mr. Jones in lauding the administration of the gigantic rehabilitation agency, "I may say that in 40 years business experience I have never seen a body

Adams Defends Hoover in Crash

Says He Heard President Beg Mellon That Boom Be Checked.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams said today in replying to the recent Columbus, Ohio, address by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, that President Hoover did not encourage speculation in 1929.

"I want to testify," said Secretary Adams, at a luncheon of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, "that I heard him (Hoover) in 1929 agree with Mr. Mellon that speculation had gone mad and beg Mr. Mellon to use all the powers of the Federal Reserve Board to check that speculation. That was the only power the President or the Federal Government had over Wall street and the temporary madness."

Magnate's Yacht Yields Rum to Custom Agents

Chicago, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The 180-foot yacht Kenkora II, owned by Kenneth Smith, president of the Pepsodent Co., was searched tonight in the Chicago harbor by United States customs agents and yielded 280 bottles of assorted liquors, the agents reported. No arrests were made.

HURRICANE NEAR, MIAMI PREPARES FOR EMERGENCY

Mollison Ends Leg of Trip in Fierce Storm

Sydney, Nova Scotia, Aug. 29 (U.P.). Capt. James A. Mollison, making a return flight from New York to England, battled his way through a violent thunderstorm late today and landed his tiny monoplane, the Heart's Content, near Sydney.

"The last two hours of the flight were the most terrible in my flying career," Mollison, veteran of long-distance flights to all parts of the world, said upon landing. "I'm glad to get down safely."

He flew from Nerepis, near St. John, en route to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, whence he hopes to start an eastward transatlantic flight to England.

As at St. John yesterday, the Sydney flying field was fog-bound, and Mollison circled over the city for almost an hour. Sydney pilots dared the storm and went aloft in an effort to aid him. One of them, Don McPherson, attempted to lead Mollison's plane to the flying field, and at one time they were within 200 yards of it. Mollison, however, flew back to the Oland farm, 6 miles away, where he had previously picked out a good landing place.

VESSELS FLEE STORM'S PATH

Driving Rain Is Falling; Streets Are Cleared of Vehicles.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Miami huddled in darkness tonight, anxiously awaiting final outcome of a tropical storm that whirled up from the Bahamas to zig-zag over the lower Florida East Coast, always coming nearer Miami.

The storm center is reported of hurricane force. The center is 10 miles in diameter, according to the calculations of R. W. Gray, local weather observer. Gray did not estimate the distance of the storm from Miami, but the Weather Bureau at Washington reported it 50 miles southeast at 9:30 p. m.

So far as could be learned, no lives have been lost and the storm has not passed over any towns, although it is supposed to have gone directly over a fishing camp on Long Key, where the storm roared on to the Florida mainland.

Hard Driving Rain.

A huge searchlight played over Miami tonight, penetrating a hard, driving rain. There was little traffic on the streets, Citizens, when the power was cut off as a safety measure, laid in stocks of candles and kerosene lamps, food and other supplies and went home to "dig in" and await the storm.

At Miami Beach, where heavy seas were running, the high winds had driven water in many houses, and occupants were busy "mopping up."

People were streaming in from outlying settlements, expectant of finding safer refuge here from the storm.

The storm was at first expected to pass 80 miles south of Miami. It reached the mainland about 80 miles south, headed in a northwesterly direction. Then it veered and came due north up the coast. Later it shifted to north northeast.

Barometer Quits Falling.

Late tonight the barometer had quit falling and was beginning a barely perceptible climb. Velocity of the wind, estimates of which ran as high as 60 miles an hour, was decreasing. Gray reported at one time that it had gone down to 22 miles an hour. The wind was in driving bursts, bringing squalls of rain.

Electric signs had been ordered taken down in downtown Miami. Plate glass windows of stores and shops were boarded up. The wind had blown tiles off roofs of buildings.

The citizens, most of them veterans of two previous storms, one of them, in 1926, proving especially disastrous with a huge loss of life, were waiting calmly through the night, hopeful that the storm would miss Miami but anxious because of the uncertain course taken by the disturbance.

(Associated Press.)

Giving warning of "dangerous shifting gales probably reaching hurricane force," the Washington Weather Bureau last night extended hurricane warnings farther up both Florida coasts as a tropical storm which started Saturday in the Bahamas approached nearer inland.

Anticipating that the first tropical disturbance of the season to blow in from the Southern waters would pass inland south of that point some time during the night, the bureau warned

DESPERATE BATTLE IS WAGED AT QUITO

Loyalists Enter City, but Are Endangered by Counterattack.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 29 (U. P.).—A desperate battle between government forces and revolutionaries raged tonight at Quito, the isolated capital of Ecuador.

Loyalist troops, which smashed the rebel defenses, after a seven-hour daylight attack with artillery and a military plane, fought their way into the city, but later were endangered by a rebel counterattack. Casualties were reported high.

The latest message from the capital, which was cut off from the outside world except for a radio station taken over by the military, said opposing troops in the street were fighting "encarnizadamente"—or in a bloodthirsty manner.

Although earlier press and official messages from Quito said loyalists were in complete control and the rebels in flight, the later advices indicated that the revolutionaries could hold out at least until dawn when government reinforcements are due from Ibarra.

During the counterattack, bombs were exploded at the Central Plaza and at the Sucre Theater at Quito.

The government troops originally drove out the revolutionary forces after an intensive seven hours' battle.

Two government columns stormed into the city from the north and south, laying down a battering artillery barrage while a single loyalist airplane attacked rebel positions from the air.

Loyal troops, aided by some 800 volunteers, were led by Col. Carlos

Capital Cameras and Dark Glasses Ready for Eclipse

Tomorrow's Phenomenon Will Reach 89 Per Cent of Totality at 3:35 P. M. Here; Rain or Clouds Would Menace Visibility.

Washingtonians will see 89 per cent of a total eclipse tomorrow afternoon at 3:35 p. m., thta is if there are no heavy cumulus clouds in the sky and if there is no rain to interrupt the observance of the phenomenon.

But these are two big "ifs" according to the Weather Bureau. For the weather experts say that there is scarcely an August 31 on record that does not have some cumulus clouds in the sky at 3:35 p. m. Whether there will be enough to prevent seeing the eclipse is another question, they added.

A careful scrutiny of the weather record for the past dozen years shows that on four occasions it has been entirely clear at the time the eclipse will be visible in Washington.

Camera enthusiasts who hope to make pictures of the phenomenon are warned to use a filter, to leave only a small opening in the lens and to make the exposure short. It has been pointed out by photographic experts that the corona will only make a small picture on an ordinary film and the use of a telescopic lens to enlarge the image is deemed advisable.

Those who are desirous of watching the sky should be equipped with dark glasses or a telescope with a light filter.

The eclipse will start here at 2:24 p. m., and will continue to 4:41 p. m., with the totality at 3:35 p. m. The path of totality will be about 100 miles wide.

Rudy Vallee and Wife Part And Are Planning Divorce

Attorney Verifies Reports of Discord Between Crooner and Former Actress; Plaintive Saxophone and "Heigh-Ho" Hinted Trouble.

New York, Aug. 29 (U.P.).—The "Snug Love Nest" of Rudy Vallee, radio crooner and enunciator of such doctrines as "A Little Kiss Each Morning" and "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," is on the brink of dissolution with Mrs. Vallee, whom he called a year ago "My ideal," contemplating a divorce.

The rumor that has been floating around the radio studios for weeks was verified today by Hyman Bushel, Vallee's attorney. Choosing his words carefully, he stated glumly:

"Mr. and Mrs. Vallee have had marital differences. They are contemplating a divorce. I am attempting to patch them up. I will make a further statement Friday."

Beyond that, Bushel would not go. He shook his head with great sadness. He had enthusiastically approved the romance a year ago. He admitted that the turn in things had made him feel very badly.

Mrs. Vallee was in seclusion in the Vallee penthouse love nest on Central Park West. She could not be reached. Vallee was on tour "somewhere in New England." His booking agent refused to say where.

A million young women imagined their hearts were broken when Vallee embraced the slender and beautiful Fay Webb, an actress, last year, and announced that she was his betrothed.

"Although she has a theatrical type of beauty," he declared, "she is a plain home girl. She will stay at

COTTON TO BE HELD FOR '33, JONES SAYS

R. F. C. Director Announces $50,000,000 Is Provided for Stabilization.

(Associated Press.)

Jesse H. Jones, a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said last night in a radio address, as released by the National Broadcasting Co., that "we have authorized $50,000,000 for cotton cooperative and cotton stabilization corporations to enable them to hold their cotton until 1933."

Mr. Jones did not elaborate on the sentence which was added to the advance text of his address just before he began to speak.

Carl Williams, vice chairman of the Farm Board, when asked by newspapermen whether Mr. Jones' announcement meant that the cotton controlled by Farm Board affiliates would be held from the markets for another year, said: "I can not comment on that at this time."

Reports had been current that the board was considering such an announcement. However, only Saturday Mr. Williams, acting in the absence of Chairman Stone, advised Gov. Murray of Oklahoma that there would be no change in the policy of disposing of the stabilization stock as the market would permit without upsetting prices.

The board planned to dispose of 650,000 of its 1,200,000 bales, now controlled by the American Cotton Cooperative Association and other organizations which it fostered. No monthly limit was set upon the sales, as in the case of wheat.

Almost constant pressure has been placed upon the board for some months to have the cotton withheld from the market on the presumption that such an announcement would raise cotton prices. Since the price of the staple has turned upward from a low point of 4.76 cents in June to today's high water mark, this insistence has increased.

Pinchot Will Not Run Against Senator Davis

Milford, Pa., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Pinchot today eliminated himself, at least temporarily, as a possible candidate for the seat of Senator James J. Davis, whose withdrawal from the Republican ticket was urged by the State's chief executive last week.

"I have no intention whatever of running for United States senator against Jim Davis," said the governor. Political observers had speculated on the possibility of the governor following up his attack on Davis by announcing himself as an independent candidate for the office.

Former Dry Head To Debate as Wet

Maj. Campbell and Upshaw Arrange Series for Southern States.

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Maurice Campbell, former Federal prohibition administrator in New York, issued a statement last night saying he and William D. Upshaw, presidential candidate of the Prohibition party, will meet in a series of prohibition debates beginning tonight in Charlotte, N. C.

Upshaw, a former member of Congress from Georgia, will take the affirmative of the proposition. Resolved, That national prohibition is a wise piece of legislation and should not be repealed, but should be enforced."

Campbell said he would speak under auspices of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, while Upshaw will represent the Gladiators of America, a newly formed organization advocating retention of the eighteenth amendment. After the Charlotte debate, Campbell said, he and Upshaw will meet again the next night in Asheville, N. C., and expect to follow these with other appearances in the South.

Airman in Fatal Crash Believed Navy Officer

Alamo, Calif., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A flier, believed by naval officials to be Ensign M. E. Greaney, U. S. N., was killed today when his plane caught fire following an explosion and crashed into an orchard near here.

Inspector Wiley Wright, of the Department of Commerce, who came here to investigate, and Lieut. Francis M. Connell, said they were informed by witnesses the plane was a navy type.

JAPAN'S GOOD WILL VISIT STIRS CAPITAL

Sino-Japanese controversy. It is generally believed that the Lytton report will not coincide with the Japanese claims that Japan did not foster trouble in Manchuria and that the Manchukuo government was set up by Manchurians.

It may take lots of explaining both in the United States and Japan to reconcile the views of the governments and publics in the two countries on the Manchurian difficulty. But Japan will have able representatives in Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, who will arrive in Yokohama on September 8, and in Admiral Nomura, who expects to leave Japan in mid-September and should reach this country early in October.

International investigations and squabbles are no novelty to Admiral Nomura.

He has lots of friends, especially in naval circles, in the United States as well as in Europe and South America. He was in Washington as naval attache from 1915 to 1918. He was at Paris during the Versailles conference as a naval expert.

Later he was in Washington with the Japanese delegation at the disarmament conference. He again visited this country in 1929 as commander of the Japanese training squadron which also paid calls to the leading South American countries.

of men more patriotic, more tireless in their efforts or more intent upon rendering a real service; and this applies with equal force to our agencies and advisory committeemen. For many weeks in the beginning, the Washington force worked an average of probably eighteen hours a day, and even now it frequently is necessary for them to work on Sundays and atnight."

Held Avoiding Collapse.

Reviewing the early struggles of the board of directors to keep abreast of the tide of financial dislocation which swept the country in March and April this year, Mr. Jones expressed the conviction that the R. F. C. had been a major factor in the avoidance of complete economic prostration.

"I shall not undertake to discuss the causes leading up to the creation of this great corporation," he continued. "Suffice to say that without it, in my opinion, there would have been a complete collapse of all trade and industry and finance, at least for a time."

Marking the vast improvement in business sentiment during the last six weeks, Mr. Jones said:

"I am glad to say, however, that this fear, this expecting something terrible to happen the next day or the next hour, is passed, and our people in all walks and all sections are now looking back upon those terrible days as history—and forward to better times."

New R. F. C. Regulations.

Several hours before Mr. Jones delivered his radio address, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation made public its new regulations for loans for self liquidating projects of a public or semipublic nature, as authorized in the relief bill passed last month. Under this provision, loans may be made for a maximum period of ten years.

All applications for this type of loan are subject to review by a board of five engineers. Eradication of slum areas in the cities is one of the major projects contemplated under these new loan provisions. Housing corporations which are subject to State or municipal supervision are eligible to apply for aid in such projects.

All work carried on with Reconstruction Finance Corporation aid is subject to a provision in the new law which requires:

"Except in executive, administrative and supervisory positions, so far as practicable, no individuals directly employed on any project shall be permitted to work more than 30 hours in any one week."

To expedite the distribution of the new self-liquidating loans, copies of the corporation's regulations have been distributed through some 1,400 local chambers of commerce and trade associations throughout the country.

"New construction only is to be financed," the regulations set forth.

"No loans may be made to refinance or refund the financing of projects already constructed, as that would not create employment. * * * All loans must be fully and adequately secured."

Distribution of Loans.

In his account of the R. F. C. operations since February, Mr. Jones revealed the following distribution of the 7,349 loans authorized through August 25:

4,265 banks	$778,347,000
630 building societies	79,156,000
70 insurance companies	70,423,000
67 mortgage companies	81,487,000
10 agricultural corporations	1,160,000
17 live stock associations	10,397,000
5 land banks	1,420,000
9 Federal land banks	29,000,000
3 credit unions	405,000
49 railroads	240,989,000

Mr. Jones estimated that since its establishment on February 2 the corporation has poured new credit resources into the blood stream of the national financial structure at the rate of $7,500,000 a day. Nor do these figures include total loans of something more than $64,000,000 advanced to 507,000 individual farmers, through the Secretary of Agriculture.

Of all the loans made to banks, 69.7 per cent went to institutions in towns of less than 5,000 population and 89.6 per cent to banks in cities of less than 50,000. Through advances from the corporation, more than 386 closed banks have been reorganized or completely liquidated.

WALKER'S PLEA IS DENIED BUT SOME POINTS ARE WON

governor that the witnesses before the legislative committee which investigated the Tammany mayor's administration, and upon whose testimony the charges to the governor were based, be produced for cross-examination before the governor, Samuel Seabury, counsel to the investigating committee, based his fifteen "conclusions" of why Walker was unfit for office on this evidence before the committee.

Justice Staley said "the policy of the State and the line of conduct for the governor" was set forth in a section of the State's public officers law, which declared that "'no evidence taken in such investigation (preliminary to the charges) shall form the basis of any determination by the governor, unless such evidence is presented at the hearing.'

"This declaration is tantamount," said Staley, "to the requirements that the witnesses be produced at the hearing."

Two other contentions of Walker also were upheld in the 3,000 word opinion—that removal must be based on acts while the mayor was in office and that they must relate to official acts.

"The application of this principle," Staley observed, "precludes the consideration of charges dealing with official acts or omissions occurring prior to the present term of the officer or in the transaction of his personal affairs, not within the scope or of affecting official action, unless such acts amount to moral turpitude."

These three points were greeted by Curtin as a "great victory" for Mayor Walker.

"I don't think," said Walker's counsel, "that there is any occasion for appeal until we know what the governor proposes to do with regard to the dictates laid down by the court.

"In brief, Justice Staley has approved judicially all of the things we have been contending, except the constitutionality of Section 122 of the Greater New York charter (the removal power), which contention was a mere incident to our position."

The Supreme Court is the lowest of three branches in New York State's judicial system, which comprises also the appellate division of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals. Since the Walker contentions involve a constitutional question, any appeal, according to usual procedure, would be carried direct to the Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal.

Gov. Roosevelt withheld immediate comment on the opinion.

"There will be no statement until I have read the opinion and because there are legal questions involved until I have opportunity to confer with my counsel."

The grind of the long days and evenings of hearings in the hall of governors at the capitol was interrupted today by the death at Saranac Lake, N. Y., of Mayor Walker's brother, George Walker. Gov. Roosevelt announced the hearing would be postponed until 12:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, Friday, and that an evening session would be held then.

HURRICANE IS NEARING MIAMI; CITIZENS MAKE PREPARATIONS

it was increasing in intensity and diameter and was central at 9:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, about 50 miles southeast of Miami, moving west-northwestward.

Although no forecast was made of just how close the storm would come to Miami proper, hurricane warnings were extended northward on the Florida east coast to West Palm Beach and northward on the west coast to Boca Grande, and storm warnings were ordered north of West Palm Beach to Eaugallie and north of Boca Grande to Trapon Springs.

National Red Cross headquarters here kept a close watch on developments and late yesterday announced some of its trained relief workers would go to Florida as a precautionary measure.

Maurice Reddy and George Myer were the relief workers dispatched to Miami last night by the Red Cross. A third man will be sent to the west coast of Florida.

Alexander Orr, chairman of the Red Cross chapter at Miami, reported to national headquarters last night the organization was prepared to gather refugees into Miami, Homestead and Florida City and to send boats out to survey along the coast and pick up any who might be hurt.

He reported a wind of 35 to 40 miles an hour followed by a lull before an expected second blow around midnight.

Fort Myers, Fla., Aug. 29 (U.P.).—The barometer dropped 10 points here in eight hours today, from 29.93 at 8 a. m. to 29.83 at 4 p. m. Small craft took to shelter, awnings on places of business were hauled down, and other storm preparations made, although no actual hurricane was expected here.

Hollywood, Fla., Aug. 29 (U.P.).—All precautions were being taken late today as Hollywood received radioed storm warnings from Miami. Crews of carpenters worked industriously boarding up plate glass fronts, giving the business section an appearance remindful of the serious storm of 1926. Damage so far has been confined to a few smashed windows and signs.

Key West, Fla., Aug. 29 (U.P.).—Shipping was at a standstill tonight as the city prepared for the reported gale sweeping up out of the Bahamas.

Man Shot to Death; Cripple Is Jailed

L. C. Holsinger Surrenders Following Slaying Near Leesburg.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 29.—L. C. Holsinger, 38, was brought to Leesburg jail by Loudoun county authorities this morning. He is alleged to have fatally shot Amos Jenkins, 78, at the Jenkins home at Broadrun Bridge.

According to Sheriff E. S. Adrian of Loudoun county, Holsinger and Jenkins were living together at the latter's home with Mrs. Janie Shugars, as housekeeper. Jenkins arose this morning about 4 o'clock and went out to the wood pile after an ax, swearing and threatening Holsinger's life, it is alleged. Holsinger reached in a bureau drawer and took out a .22 caliber pistol and started down stairs. Jenkins entered the door with an ax and again threatened Holsinger, who, being a cripple, defended himself with his crutch, and, in breaking, drew his gun and fired two shots, one taking effect in Jenkins' breast, it is reported. Holsinger, surrendered to authorities.

Holsinger was wounded by Fairfax officers some time ago when they attempted to arrest him and has been a cripple since.

New Anniversary Stamps Announced

Webster and Penn to Be Honored by Special Issues in October.

(Associated Press.)

The 150th birthday anniversary of Daniel Webster and the 250th anniversary of William Penn's arrival in America will be commemorated in October by the issuance of special 3-cent stamps bearing likeness of the two early Americans. Both stamps will be purple with special designs encircling the full-face likenesses of the men.

The Webster stamp will be placed on sale October 24 at Exeter, Franklin and Hanover, N. H., and the Penn stamp the same date at New Castle, Del., and Chester and Philadelphia, Pa. Both will go on general sale the following day.

Cascade Range Peaks Are Covered by Snow

Bend, Oreg., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The high peaks of the Cascade Range were whitened by snow today.

A fall of two inches was reported from Bachelor Butte, east of the Three Sisters.

MELLON FORESEES MORE STOCK GAINS

Regards Present Upswing of Markets as Sound and Natural.

(Associated Press.)

The view that the present upswing in the American securities and commodity markets is sound and will be sustained was expressed on behalf of Andrew W. Mellon yesterday in quarters familiar with the former Treasury Secretary's outlook.

The Ambassador to Great Britain declined to be quoted, but he was represented in informed quarters as believing existing market conditions to be a natural turn upward from subnormal levels.

Mr. Mellon was active in the Capital throughout the day, conferring with President Hoover, State Department officials and close friends and associates. He said he probably would sail from New York Wednesday for his London post.

Questioned concerning the visit in this country of Montagu Norman, head of the Bank of England, he said he was not informed on that point. He said he had no engagement to see Norman.

Mr. Mellon's views of the national business situation were represented generally as follows from a source which has spoken for him often before.

The rise in both commodity and security prices is natural and can be viewed as a corrective movement. Commodity prices could not have continued at their recent low levels because they were below the cost of production. The same reasoning would apply to the securities market.

The present movement could be linked to a pendulum swing. Just as prices went too high during the period of inflation, so they swung too low in the period of sharp deflation that followed. In both instances extremes were represented. The present activity is a movement toward normal levels.

President Is Told Woman Vote Sure

Mrs. Yost Assures Him Humanitarian Work Is Appreciated.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of women's activities for the Republican national committee, said after a conference with President Hoover yesterday she had delivered an optimistic report upon the support he might expect from women voters.

Mrs. Yost said in her work she had found additional feminine support for him because despite "the problems of economic readjustment in these complex times, he has continued his work for conservation of the human resources of the country," in addition to "his work in behalf of children and the home."

She carried with her a bulky folder containing letters from many women supporters.

Montgomery Farm Women Separate

Heated Meeting Results in Definite Split Into Two Groups.

Following a heated meeting in the police court room at Rockville, Md., last night, the two factions of the Montgomery County farm women definitely split into two market groups. About 50 left the meeting under the leadership of Miss Blanche A. Corwin, former home demonstration agent, who inaugurated the market movement. The remaining 26 signed the articles of incorporation in the new group to be known as the Montgomery Farm Women's Cooperative Market, Inc.

The Corwin adherents created considerable disturbance in the meeting when remarks were called for, and this resulted in their being asked to leave the hall. They did. The remaining group then proceeded to form the new corporation with 1,000 shares of common stock at $2 a share and 400 shares of preferred stock at $25 a share. There was some talk of entering legal proceedings against the Corwin group.

Miss Corwin last night issued a statement in which she announced the location of the Farm Women's Market, Inc., of Montgomery County, at 7118 Old Georgetown road, at the corner of Melrose avenue, on Saturday. The Leland Street Market will be used tomorrow. The lease on the property expires September 8, and, until that time, Miss Corwin announced, no member of the new group will be permitted to sell in the building.

Nashawena Mills, but they will not open until today, when 600 will be employed. Word that textile mills were about to reopen spread rapidly throughout the city and more than 8,000 mill workers sought employment at various plants.

Fall River, Mass.—The Durfee Mills reopened, giving employment to 400 textile workers. The mills had been closed nearly two months.

New York, Aug. 29.—The outstanding capital stock of sixteen leading New York banks shows an appreciation in value of more than $1,000,000,000 today as compared with the 1932 low, according to computations of Wall street specialists in these issues, made public today.

The aggregate value of the sixteen principal bank stocks today is $1,976,851,000, which compares with a $929,895,000 on May 31, the 1932 low. During last week, alone, the value of these issues increased by $234,711,000.

Always regarded as a basic barometer of national business sentiment, the New York bank stock index today is hailed in Wall street as most encouraging evidence of revived investor confidence. At today's prices, the New York bank stocks are selling at approximately the figures of last November. The current market value of the sixteen issues is 1.18 times their known book value. At the May low, the same stocks had a combined market value of only .53 times their known book value.

The current average yield on these stocks is 5.86 per cent a year, against 13.24 per cent at the May 13 market values.

California Tunnel Yields Four Bodies

Fatalities Reach 94 Since Beginning of New Water System.

Livermore, Calif., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Crews of miners burrowed steadily today through tons of mud, rock and broken timbers and rescued the bodies of four of five men entombed late yesterday in a cave-in in a huge tunnel being built to carry mountain water to San Francisco.

The first three bodies brought to the surface were identified as those of Pat Crowley, 32; Chester Simondson, 30, and Roy McClendon, 30. It was expected the fifth body would be found tonight and the remaining two brought above ground. The others killed were E. Cline, 39, and Thomas Dennehy, 29.

The cave-in occurred as timbering in the bore was being changed preparatory to lining the tunnel walls with cement. Eleven men escaped. Sunday's tragedy brings to 94 the number of fatalities recorded during the building of the Hetch Hetchy water system. Most of the deaths have resulted from explosions in the Coast Range tunnels.

U. S. LEGION IS HELD SURE TO ASK BONUS

Immediate Payment Group to Control Two-Thirds of Convention.

(Associated Press.)

A generous two-thirds of the voting strength of the American Legion's national convention is shown by headquarters records to be pledged for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Of the 35 State and Territorial organizations which have instructed their delegates to vote for cash payment at the Portland, Oreg., convention next month, 21 reversed positions taken last year.

As a majority rule will govern, headquarters officials regard it certain that the national meeting, beginning September 12, will change its stand of a year ago opposing cash payment. This action was taken at Detroit after President Hoover personally appealed to the delegates to do so.

Calculated on the basis of 1931 voting strength at the national convention, 1,063 of the 1,415 vote total favor cash payment. Only three departments have gone on record against it. On the 1931 basis they would have 61 votes.

Eviction of B. E. F.

Although the voting strength of delegations at Portland will not be determined until the credentials committee acts, officers explained it would be proportionately the same as a year ago. Seven departments have held conventions without acting on the bonus issue.

The same total adopted resolutions criticising the eviction from Washington of the bonus army. They will come up for action at Portland. One State convention defeated such a resolution.

Departments recorded for cash payment are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Utah, Michigan, Tennessee and New Hampshire.

Requests Qualified.

Departments of Florida, Nebraska and South Carolina opposed immediate payment.

Arizona and Virginia departments qualified their requests to have payment made as soon as the Federal Government is able. Others favored immediate payment. The South Dakota department also voted in favor but submitted the question to a State Legion referendum. Headquarters has information the vote is going for immediate payment.

Departments which criticized eviction of the bonus-seeking veterans from Washington were Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Ohio, Illinois, Texas and Maryland. New York defeated a similar resolution.

Small B.E.F. Group Clearing Property

Plans to Stay at Waterbury During Winter; Cutting Wood to Get Food.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 29.—That some of the veterans of the "Bonus Army" who were driven out of Washington and later evicted from a tract of woodland at Waterbury, 7 miles from Annapolis, when Gov. Ritchie refused to permit establishment of a camp, plan to remain at the latter site during the winter and possibly longer was indicated today.

Ten men, under supervision of Weyland Kernars, are now encamped there, and are engaged in cutting timber into cord wood, which they propose to sell to obtain food and clothing. They are also building a hut for shelter during cold weather. The property is owned by Miss Maude E. Edgell, of Catonsville, Md., who gave 25 acres to the bonus marchers when they moved out of Washington, and many of them had assembled there until the governor decreed that no such camp should be set up in Maryland.

Most of the timber on the land is poplar, oak and hickory. The men have cut about ten cords so far. They propose to sell the poplar for making barrel staves and the oak and hickory for firewood. They have a truck for hauling. The veterans proposed to plant tobacco next spring and otherwise improve the land as it is cleared.

Auto Crash Killing 3 Is Called Accidental

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The death of three young persons in an automobile accident at the intersection of Crain highway and Camp Meade road Friday, was held by Magistrate Lester L. Disney, of Odenton, Md., accidental. Milford H. Melling, of Severn, Md., driver of the truck involved in the collision, was released by the magistrate. He had been free on his own recognizance.

Miss Yoloanda Sorivi, 16, and Miss Ada Murray, 16, of Washington, and W. Ellison Umberger, 21, of Wytheville, Va., were killed in the crash in which Umberger's car was thrown from the road by the impact of Melling's truck.

CAUTION ON POLICY URGED ON VETERANS

Pacific Coast Convention Also Hears Patman on Bonus Fight.

Sacramento, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, opening their thirty-third national encampment here today, were urged by speakers to consider policies cautiously and sanely and keep a united front for their rights.

Commander in Chief Darold De Coe, of Sacramento, opened the convention by telling his comrades, "We are in hostile times. Let us give careful, sane consideration to all problems that will come before us. Let us show the people we are as patriotic now as when we went to war."

Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, who led the fight in the last session of Congress for immediate payment of former service men's bonus certificates, started demonstrations as he described official actions in Washington.

"We've got a real battle on our hands," Patman said, speaking of the bonus fight, "but I believe we will win the support of the American people if we get the truth over to them."

The delegates booed lustily when Patman mentioned Archibald Roosevelt and his activities as head of the National Economy League, which advocates trimming of governmental expenditures for veteran aid.

Rice W. Means, Washington, D. C., publisher and former United States senator from Colorado, was received enthusiastically when he condemned opponents of veteran legislation and their methods of action.

"It is easy to name our enemies," Means said. "The great international bankers of this country have looked upon the amount to be given the veterans and have decided it must be cut.

"We must unite and with the lash drive the money changers from the temple of government."

South Carolina Votes Today in Senate Race

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Ellison Durant Smith, who has held a seat in the United States Senate longer than any man in South Carolina's history, must beat back the challenges of three opponents in tomorrow's Democratic primary if he is to return for a fifth term. The Senate race overshadows contests for county offices. No State offices are at stake.

Among Smith's opponents is Cole L. Blease, former senator, who was beaten for renomination two years ago by James F. Byrnes. The others are Ashton H. Williams, Florence attorney and antiprohibition leader, and Leon W. Harris, Anderson solicitor.

Writ Against Comedian Is Given Mrs. Chaplin

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—An appelate court order restraining Superior Judge H. P. Wood from continuing the hearing of Charles Chaplin's suit against his former wife, Mrs. Lita Gray Chaplin, seeking to prohibit her from allowing their two sons to enter motion picture careers, was issued today by Appellate Judge Gavin Craig.

The writ of prohibition, obtained by Mrs. Chaplin's attorney, was made returnable September 8, and claimed the superior court had no jurisdiction in the case. It also alleged Mrs. Chaplin had not been served properly with papers.

Channel Swimmer Quits In Storm After 14 Hours

Dover, England, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Only a mile and one-quarter off Dover, A. C. Kaanar, 20-year-old English seminary student, was forced tonight to abandon his attempt to swim the British Channel.

Kaanar had been fourteen hours in the water, having taken off this morning from Cap Gris Nez, France. He had to quit because of a storm.

through pickets on one highway. Sheriff Keeling led a group of officers who brought five trucks of live stock and two of milk through on another road after a free-for-all fight had tied up the trucks at the picket stations.

Resolved on "Speedy End."

Meanwhile, Polk County Attorney Carl Missildine issued a statement that "the law must be enforced." Shortly before Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, wired from Washington a message saying that the movement was arousing deep and widespread attention.

The Khaki Shirt members were held for investigation. Arrested earlier were Sam C. Patterson, of the Khaki Shirts, who was held in default of $1,000 bail, and Ray Michael, farmer, released on $1,000 bond.

Sheriff Keeling scouted a report that 500 reinforcements were coming to aid holiday workers here, although he said members of the picket army from Council Bluffs and Sioux City would be turned back.

The county attorney and sheriff both said they were "out to bring this picketing to a speedy end."

At Omaha two dairies announced a 40 per cent increase in prices they will pay for milk. Independent leaders and cooperative producers announced a meeting Monday night to discuss proposed price increases. Roads north, west and south of Omaha were picketed Monday night, and few trucks were reaching the city.

Egg Prices Rise.

Columbus, Nebr., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Charles W. Bryan tonight promised to keep Nebraska roads open for the movement of farm produce and said the farmers should "picket the Republican party" instead of the women and children of Omaha and Sioux City.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Aug. 29 (A.P.). Grocers today said shipments of fresh eggs from farmers have decreased approximately 70 per cent, and that they have been forced to get their supplies from storage houses as a result of the farmers' holiday picketing.

The merchants said they were paying 12 cents a dozen for fresh eggs when the holiday movement began its blockade, and that the price for storage eggs now ranges from 19 to 25 cents a dozen. Three wholesale houses reported their potato supplies are exhausted.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS IN HOUSE FORECAST

Byrns Sees an Increase in Majority From 10 to 50 or 75.

New York, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—An expectation that the Democrats will increase their House majority in the next Congress from 10 to 50 or 75 was voiced tonight by Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee.

As head of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, he conferred with those directing the party's ballot drive at national headquarters, where he gave out his statement. He based his prediction, he said, on personal contacts and correspondence with Democratic nominees for Congress.

From 150 of these candidates, he said, he had received optimistic letters.

"These new Democratic members," he continued, "are, in the main, coming from Eastern, New England, Middle Western and Western States.

"The very largely increased support for Democratic congressional nominees indicates the people of the sections named are dissatisfied with the 'do-nothing' policies of the Hoover administration."

His own State of Tennessee, which was carried by the Republicans in 1928, "is certain to go Democratic in November," he said.

James A. Farley, national chairman, who joined Gov. Roosevelt and chairmen of the campaign finance committees in a Nation-wide appeal for campaign funds last week, expressed satisfaction with the response thus far.

He said that 2,000 letters had been received, that they contained $7 each on an average, and that the total, when the entire country is heard from, "will probably be a startling sum."

At Albany today Gov. Roosevelt, commenting on the failure of Smith to attend a luncheon in the governor's honor at West Hampton Beach, Long Island, yesterday, to which he had been invited, said a prior engagement prevented Smith from attending.

"The truth of the matter," said the governor "is that Mr. O'Connor (Basil O'Connor, former law partner of the governor and the host) called up Al on the phone more than a week ago to ask him to be at the luncheon. Their conversation was extremely friendly, but Al actually had a prior engagement and could not be there."

Gov. Roosevelt Confers With Rail Labor Chiefs

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt conferred with the laboring side of the railroad business today, a continuation of a series of conferences he said were designed to bring to him a complete picture of the condition of the Nation's railroads.

The Democratic nominee, who during recent months has conferred with a half dozen presidents of big carrier systems, talked for an hour with representatives of the standard railway labor organizations, including spokesmen for the railroad brotherhoods.

Johnson Says Mid-West Is Swinging to Hoover

(Associated Press.)

Representative Johnson (Republican), South Dakota, said after a conference with President Hoover yesterday, he had reported his recent trip in the Midwest convinced him "there is a real swing toward Hoover there."

Johnson said he intended to make numerous speeches in Mr. Hoover's behalf during the campaign.

Many Speaking Dates Are Arranged for Mills

Secretary Mills said yesterday he would deliver a political speech in Portland, Me., on September 10.

Although he did not disclose his other speaking dates, he said Republican leaders had outlined a heavy schedule for him.

NORMAN TRIP HELD MERELY INFORMAL

Bankers and U. S. Officials Deny War Debts and Tariffs Discussed.

New York, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Speculation over the visit here of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, reached a fever heat today on two continents, but drew from leading banking authorities the description of being much ado about nothing.

Widespread reports were circulated that the governor of the English bank had held a conference with George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and other leading American bankers, on war debts, the obtaining of a huge American loan by the Bank of England, an international campaign to advance commodity prices, a possible return by England to the gold standard, and other subjects of far reaching importance.

Gov. Harrison, who until today had kept in the background, so far as newspaper inquiries into the Norman visit were concerned, said emphatically that the English banker had come to New York solely for the purpose of paying an informal visit, and had done so at Gov. Harrison's request.

Gov. Harrison emphatically stated that the question of war debts had not been discussed during this visit, and that the question of a loan had not been mentioned, either directly or indirectly.

Bankers stated, however, that the Norman visit had unquestionably helped to provide a better mutual understanding of the financial problems faced by England, on the one side, and United States on the other. The informal visits between leading executives of the principal world banking systems had proved helpful in the past, it was stated, and frequently had prevented the banks from working at broad differences.

In Washington, State Department officials said that Gov. Norman had not discussed reparations nor debt with any Department of State officers on his trip here.

From London, also, came a dispatch stating that officials of the British foreign office disclaimed any knowledge of published reports that Gov. Norman was discussing war debts, tariffs and similar matters of international importance.

JIMMY HAIZLIP SETS RECORD FOR COAST-TO-COAST FLIGHT

grinned broadly, slapped his rival on the back and said, "Well, there's nobody in the world I'd rather have beat me than you."

Turner ran into a storm west of Cleveland so severe that it nearly whipped the hood from his cockpit, he said, and he lost additional time by slow refueling at Colorado Springs and Quincy, Ill. Haizlip refueled in ten minutes at Goodland, Kans., and in half that time at Lansing, Ill.

Haizlip figured he averaged better than 250 miles an hour and said his top speed was about 275 miles an hour, over the Western plains. He saw the sunrise over the Grand Canyon, he related, but was too busy flying to pay much attention to any other scenery on the way.

He flew high most of the way and maintained an altitude of 14,000 feet over the Rocky Mountains.

Cleveland, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—James G. Haizlip's feat today overshadowed a threatened strike of racing pilots who reached an agreement with national air race officials to continue in the meet after they had demanded a doubling of prize money in closed course events.

Sixty pilots, who last night signed a petition demanding an increase of the stakes, were represented by E. M. (Matty) Laird, Chicago, noncontestant, and agreed to stay with the meet under condition that they form an organization group to be consulted when the 1933 program is worked up.

As an aftermath of the threatened pilots' strike, the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association voted to refund the entire entry fee posted by the fliers for each event they entered. Previously, 50 per cent had been refunded to all starters.

Gehlbach Is Fourth.

Haizlip led a field of four derbyists in his weather-ignoring dash, James R. Weddell, of Patterson, La., averaging 232 miles an hour to take the $3,750 second prize.

Col. Roscoe Turner, of Los Angeles, averaged 226 miles an hour for third place money of $2,250. He also continued on to New York, finishing the transcontinental journey in 11 hours and 3 minutes, which also was faster than Doolittle's former record.

Lee Gehlbach, Mount Clemens, Mich., averaging 210 miles an hour, won $1,500 fourth place money. The only starter who failed to reach Cleveland was X. K. Vance, West Coast pilot, who turned back with a broken gasoline line soon after taking off.

A small crowd witnessed the day's events, a heavy rain that continued throughout the morning and until afternoon making the third day running of the races problematical until nearly the official starting time.

Wedell made a grand slam of the first three places in the high-speed derby since the mounts flown by Haizlip, Turner and himself were built by him in Louisiana. The builder, begrimed and tired when he landed here, smiled wanly at his greeters, gulped a cup of hot coffee, and said he had experienced no trouble on his flight except the jamming of mud in the stream lined pants of his landing gear at his first stop in Pueblo, Colo. He added that on his only other stop, Chicago, he lost 40 minutes refueling.

"There was fog over the mountains, so I climbed to 18,000 feet to get above it," he said, "but after that I maintained an altitude of 4,000 feet. I didn't see any of the rest of the boys."

Favorable Weather.

Behlbach, former Army flier, reported favorable weather throughout the route, but said he had been worried because his engine had consumed an unusual amount of oil. Because of this he was delayed at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., for 40 minutes. Somewhere along the route his ship lost the streamlined pant on the tail wheel.

Roy Hunt, Norman, Okla., pilot, who said he learned his winning ways from Haizlip, notched another victory on his propeller when he led a field of five in a 21-mile race, averaging 97.846 miles an hour. The flier's first triumph occurred in the transcontinental derby, which ended Saturday, Harold Neumann, of Moline, Ill., placed second in the short race and Edwin Veras, of Elkhart, Ind., was third.

Art Davis, of East Lansing, Mich., won a 21-mile free-for-all for small planes at an average speed of 88.96 miles an hour, Neumann taking second, and Duke Muller, of Niles, Mich., third.

Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly, Great Britain's stunt flying good-will ambassador to two previous air races, took the air for his first exhibition of "crazy flying."

BIG SUITS ALLOWED IN KREUGER DEBACLE

Eight U. S. Magnates to Be Named in Actions for $138,000,000.

New York, Aug. 29 (U.P.).—Eight middle-aged millionaires, highly successful in business, and reputed to be as shrewd as any eight men America has produced, are to be sued for $138,000,000 on the allegation that they naively allowed a ninth gentleman to hoodwink them out of that amount.

The suits were authorized today by Oscar W. Ehrhorn, Federal referee in bankruptcy, on petition of the Irving Trust Company, trustee of the late Ivar Kreuger's defunct match company, the International Match Corporation.

Kreuger, who, before his suicide, was a great financier, a genius and, after his death, an international adventurer and confidence man, will be the villian in the suits that will allege, in a few words, that the eight Americans, as directors of International Match, did not watch him closely enough.

List of Defendants.

The eight:

Percy A. Rockefeller, member of America's foremost industrial and monied dynasty, director of 51 corporations.

Francis L. Higginson, member of the banking firm of Lee, Higginson and Company, director of 12 corporations.

Frederick W. Allen, member of the same firm and director of 33 corporations.

Donald Durant, also of Lee, Higginson & Co., and director in six corporations.

Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the Brooklyn Eastern District Terminal, and director of thirteen corporations.

Samuel F. Pryor, a director of thirty-three corporations.

Adrian H. Larkin, a director of ten corporations.

John McHugh, director of the Chase National Bank and six other corporations.

Many Allegations.

The Irving Trust Co. received permission to file two suits against the eight men. First they will sue for an accounting of $100,000,000 allegedly lost to stockholders of the corporation because of their negligence; secondly, it will sue for $38,000,000 allegedly lost to stockholders because of dividends illegally paid from capital.

The allegations are numerous. From the summons and complaint on file in the referee's office some of them are:

1. That Rockefeller, Higginson and the other directors of International Match allowed Kreuger to control and manage the corporation's finances "despite the fact that the American public had invested $150,000,000."

2. That Rockefeller, Higginson and the others, neglected the affairs of International Match's subsidiaries despite the fact that because it was a holding corporation, these subsidiaries were its most important assets. They permitted Kreuger to appoint subordinates and associates to their directorates.

22 Illegal Dividends.

3. They allowed International Match to make an advance of $75,000,000 to Continental Investment, A. G., a wholely owned subsidiary, and $17,000,000 to Garanta, a Dutch corporation which, the trust company charges, Kreuger used for milking other corporations.

4. That International Match acquired valuable concessions through large purchases of foreign securities, but the directors failed to hold them for the profit of the corporation.

5. That through the failure of the directors to safeguard the corporation's interests, Kreuger took $50,000,000 in German bonds from its treasury.

6. That 22 dividends were illegally voted by the eight directors.

Mrs. Moran Rites To Be Held Today

Funeral of Retired Federal Employe Will Be at St. Joseph's.

Requiem mass for Mrs. Josie Rosalie Moran, 59 years old, of 638 Seventh street northeast, will be said this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The Rev. J. T. Kennedy will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Mrs. Moran died Saturday at Providence Hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Moran was born at Charlottesville, and prior to her marriage was Miss Scanlon. She celebrated her fortieth wedding anniversary on July 4. She was the wife of Patrick H. Moran, retired Federal employe. Mrs. Moran was a member of the Sodality of St. John and of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Holy Comforter Church, and was active in church work.

Surviving are her husband, five sons, James D. Moran, formerly of The Post; Francis A. Moran, Arthur L. Moran, Patrick H. Moran 2d, and Milton J. Moran; five daughters, Miss Julia Moran, Mrs. Elizabeth Pugh, Mrs. Estelle Pumphrey, Mrs. Christina English and Mrs. Armat Sluga, all of Washington, and two sisters, Mrs. Michael Marion, of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Charles Keefer, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mrs. Zihlman Rites Will Be Held Today

Wife of Former Representative to Be Buried at Forest Glen.

Requiem mass for Mrs. Marguerite Dahl Zihlman, wife of former Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, will be said this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's Catholic Church, Forest Glen, Md. Burial will be in Forest Glen Cemetery. Mrs. Zihlman died from a heart attack Saturday in her suite at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, while her husband was attending a parade of the Loyal Order of the Moose.

The Zihlmans have lived at 9302 Colesville pike, Silver Spring, Md., since Mr. Zihlman's retirement from public office.

Surviving Mrs. Zihlman besides her husband, are her mother, Mrs. Charles J. Dahl; three brother, Bernard Dahl, Vitus Dahl and Joseph Dahl; two sisters, Mrs. George W. Mehlberth and Miss Madalen Dahl, and an adopted daughter, Suzanne, 11 years old.

Marlene Dietrich Freed From Suits

Mrs. Von Sternberg Drops Two Actions Against Film Actress.

New York, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A legal finis was affixed today to the peace pact between Marlene Dietrich, of filmdom, and Mrs. Riza von Sternberg, wife of Marlene's producer-manager, Josef von Sternberg.

Stipulations of discontinuance were filed in supreme court in Mrs. von Sternberg's two suits against the star, one for $500,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections, and the other for $100,000 for libel.

The libel suit grew out of purported statements of Miss Dietrich in an interview published in a German language paper in Vienna, which Mrs. von Sternberg charged insinuated her husband was about to sue for divorce. The stipulations did not disclose the terms of the settlement.

TAUNTS OF STRIKERS SWELL THEIR RANKS

British Textile Walk-Out Is Held Possible Death Blow to Huge Industry.

Manchester, Eng., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Scowling Lancashire mill lassies, who are facing weeks and perhaps months of starving idleness, stood outside the gates of the Midlands great textile factories today and hurled vitriolic taunts at those who, in defiance of orders to strike, went to work.

It was hard to determine exactly how many workers obeyed the strike call, but estimates were that the movement was about two-thirds effective. Andrew Naesmith, leader of the weavers union, said 140,000 had walked out and by Wednesday 170,000 would be on strike.

There was no violence—only the mill girls' "get on with ye" and looks of hate and reproach which spoke louder than any words.

Some of those who went to work as usual at dawn left the mills at noon not to return rather than face the batteries of work-hardened faces.

With a large proportion of the 200,000 spinners on strike and an equal number of weavers—even if they decide to accept the 10 per cent wage cut when they meet ten days hence—may find themselves without employment, since spinning and weaving are dependent upon each other.

While the warfare proceeds the textile manufacturing industry itself is likely to take a blow on the chin from which it may never recover. Industrialists, economists and the press see catastrophic danger in the strike, which is occurring at a time when Britain needs every resource to weather what the Viscount of Ickornshaw, Philip Snowden, calls the "economic blizzard."

There is no sign of government intervention. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, accompanied by J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, have left for Balmoral, Scotland, to inform the king about the results of the Ottawa conference. The prime minister intimated, however, that he would return to London in a day or two, which would mean an alteration of his plans to complete his holiday in Scotland.

Flores Guerra in taking the rebel positions at Panesillo after severe fighting. They then advanced into the capital, driving the rebels back under heavy fire. Another column of government troops from the north marched into Quito at the same time.

The revolutionaries had seized the capital and forced Acting President Baquerizo Moreno to flee. The rebels demanded installation of Netali Bonifaz in the presidency, from which congress had barred him because his parents were Peruvians.

The government's military plane, flown to the front by Dan Tobin, a United States pilot, who formally delivered it to the federal authorities, was a strong factor in defeat of the rebels at the isolated capital. Pilot Mantilla, of the federal army, flew the craft over Quito during the battle.

The rebels were well armed. The Bolivar Battalion has 16 field guns and the Constitution Battalion 6 machine guns, while the loyal forces under Minister of War Sotomayor Luna have a total of 32 field guns and 24 machine guns.

The majority of the ministry of Acting President Alfredo Baquerizo Moreno were reported to have sought asylum in the various legations at Quito. President Moreno was in the Argentine Legation.

Efforts of the revolutionists to obtain support in other parts of the republic failed.

VALLEES PLANNING TO END MARRIAGE

home and read and keep house for me."

At the time, the plain home girl was wearing an unpretentious four-carat, pear-shaped diamond ring and a hardly noticeable platinum and diamond bracelet around her shapely ankle.

Radio circles began to notice a difference a few months ago. When Vallee appeared at the studio for his weekly broadcast, Mrs. Vallee no longer clung to his arm. Instead of his pleasant, friendly manner, he was inclined to go off into a corner and toot plaintively on his saxophone. There seemed a melancholy note in his voice when he advanced confidently on the microphone to murmur, "Life is just a bowl of cherries."

These occurrences set musicians and singers to buzzing. A drummer who approached the crooner two weeks ago and asked solicitously for Mrs. Vallee was met with an icy stare. Occasionally he seemed to falter. There seemed a furtive uncertainty to his manner, a wavering quality to his "Heigh, ho, everybody! Heigh ho!"

It was learned that Mrs. Vallee plans to go to California Friday. She is the daughter of the police chief of Santa Monica, and was on the stage when Rudy met her. It could not be learned if she planned to stop off at Reno en route.

JURY IS DUE TO GET DUNCAN CASE TODAY

Presentation of Testimony Is Completed by Defense and Prosecution.

The case of William H. Duncan, former Arlington County clerk, will reach the jury today. Yesterday saw both defense and prosecution complete presentation of testimony at his trial before Judge Walter T. McCarthy in Arlington County Circuit Court on charges of misuse of public funds.

Closing arguments by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, Assistant State's Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., for the State, and Attorneys Amos C. Crounse and Leo P. Harlow, for the defense, will be heard today.

The jury was excused at 3 p. m. yesterday following the announcement by Attorney Harlow that the defense rested.

Duncan did not testify in his own behalf. The defense witnesses were sixteen prominent citizens of Alexandria and Arlington County, all of whom said Duncan's reputation for honesty and integrity was excellent.

Green Testifies.

The defense also called Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue for Arlington County, and Miss Lois A. Hendricks. The testimony of Mr. Green referred to money he received from Duncan for fees due him in property transfers.

Miss Hendricks, a court reporter, was asked by Crounse about the many alleged changes in figures in one of the record books in the office of the county clerk. Her answers to questions as to whether they were done by an experienced typist were that they were done by some one having experience in typing. On cross-examination by Denny she testified that in some cases the figures appeared to have been made by an experienced typist and in others it did not appear so.

The character witnesses for Duncan were: George W. Zachary, Dr. W. C. Barr, Judge B. M. Hedrick, E. C. Turnburke, N. H. Peake, L. C. MacPherson, E. F. Johnson, C. H. Travis, John Logan, W. E. Stevens, Mrs. H. V. Ludwig William E. E. McShea, Mrs. Harry R. Whitehead, Allen P. Hume, H. W. Dudley and Dr. F. J. Ready.

Following the disclosure that the defendant had maintained a private account in a Washington bank, the prosecution rested its case before the noon recess yesterday. The testimony concerning the personal account maintained by Duncan in the Potomac Savings Bank, Wisconsin avenue, and M street, was admitted into the record over the strenuous objections of Defense Attorneys Amos C. Crounse and Leo P. Harlow.

Brought Up by Defense.

Denny stated to the court the prosecution would not have gone into this account if the defense had not brought its existence to the attention of the jurors on Friday while cross-examining a witness. Denny declared that the State intended to show the defendant did not have sufficient money in this account to offset the alleged shortage.

Charles W. Shoemaker, cashier of the Washington bank, testified as to Duncan's balances from July, 1931, to April 2, 1932. According to the witness the account was largest in February, 1932, when he had to his credit $5,872.05. On April 2, 1932, he had but $136.72 to his credit, Shoemaker said.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Denver, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Continuing their observations of the cosmic ray that have taken them to Alaskan mountain tops and into California, Dr. Ralph D. Bennett, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. J. L. Dunham, of Harvard, and Dr. E. H. Bramhall, of Cambridge University, England, came to Mount Evans, near Denver, today.

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Pearl Dillon Long, 57, former wife of the editor, Ray Long, and herself prominent in magazine and newspaper work, died at the Los Gatos home of her son, Sidney Long, today. An honor graduate of Vassar, Mrs. Long had worked with a string of newspapers and for a syndicate from 1900 to 1905. She was a former editor of Red Book and Photoplay Magazines and wrote under the pen name of Dorothy Dale.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—"Without the present tariff on wool," Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), Utah, declared at the opening of the national ram sale here today, "there would not be a pound of American wool on the market."

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Bayou La Batre, port for approximately 200 shrimping vessels operating in waters around Mobile, was under guard of sheriffs' deputies today, after reports of an attempt to sink two shrimp boats. The vessels were filled with water when the owners started to take them out under an agreement with a packing company for a price of $5.50 a barrel for the catch. The packing company's agreement applied only to about 30 boats. No arrests have been made.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The steamer B. F. Affleck, of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co., and the U. S. S. dredge Gen. Meade collided this morning in the middle Neebish channel of lower St. Mary's River. Both vessels were damaged.

Boston, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Four persons were arrested today when police broke up a demonstration by more than 50 alleged radicals in front of city hall. The demonstrators had sought food, work and a dole for the unemployed from Mayor James J. Curley.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—William E. Shaddock, 52, known throughout the country as one of the leading America agitators for the cause of the Irish Republic, died today. He was a close friend of Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Republic, and espoused his principles actively for the past fifteen years.

MISS LEOPOLDI HANSEN.

Veterans' Administration Employe to Be Buried in Michigan.

Miss Leopoldi Hansen, 42 years old, of 2400 Sixteenth street, an employe for the last fifteen years of the Veterans' Administration, who died Sunday in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, will be buried at Weidman, Mich., her place of birth. The time of the funeral has not been set.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Janus Weidman, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Haliburton, of Boston, and Mrs. Lucy Swett, of Weidman, Mich., and a brother, John. Miss Hansen had been ill several months.

Mrs. Von Sternberg Drops Two Actions Against Film Actress.

New York, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A legal finis was affixed today to the peace pact between Marlene Dietrich, of filmdom, and Mrs. Riza von Sternberg, wife of Marlene's producer-manager, Josef von Sternberg.

Stipulations of discontinuance were filed in supreme court in Mrs. von Sternberg's two suits against the star, one for $500,000, charging alienation of her husband's affections, and the other for $100,000 for libel.

The libel suit grew out of purported statements of Miss Dietrich in an interview published in a German language paper in Vienna, which Mrs. von Sternberg charged insinuated her husband was about to sue for divorce. The stipulations did not disclose the terms of the settlement.

MRS. M'CORMICK'S TESTAMENT FILED

Will Has Clause to Discourage Any Attempt to Contest It.

Chicago, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The last will of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick—including a clause designed to discourage attempts at breaking it—was filed for probate today.

As had been previously revealed, five-twelfths of the estate was bequeathed to her personal friend and business associate, Edwin D. Krenn. The will stated Krenn had loaned Mrs. McCormick "large sums of money and securities" and had suffered losses thereby.

No indication was given in the will of the present value of the estate, but it is known to have shrunk from $40,000,000 or more to perhaps one-third that sum. Mrs. McCormick, social dictator of Chicago for 30 years, once was known as "the world's richest woman."

Legatees and Amounts.

In addition to Krenn, the beneficiaries and the amounts they receive are: Four-twelfths to her daughter, Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard; two-twelfths to another daughter, Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, and one-twelfth to her son, Fowler McCormick.

The will provides that should any one of the three children attempt to break the will his or her share would go to Krenn.

Mrs. McCormick's attorney, Judge Charles S. Cutting, revealed the will was drawn up last August 4, three weeks before her death from cancer last Thursday. He said it was "about the eighth" will he had prepared.

The Chicago Title & Trust Co., executor of the estate, must file an inventory of property owned by Mrs. McCormick within 90 days. Even then, however, attorneys said, it will be possible to estimate the value "only vaguely."

Indebtedness to Krenn.

Discussing the legacy to Krenn, the will stated: "I make this provision because I am justly indebted to Edwin D. Krenn for large sums of money and securities loaned by him to me at my request, and the amount hereby given him will not fully compensate him for the loss which he has and will sustain by reason of such debts, loans and advances to me from time to time."

Krenn has renounced his share of the estate to his partner and co-trustee in the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, Edward Dato, in exchange for a life income of $2,000 a month. Krenn has expressed a wish to return to Switzerland, whence Mrs. McCormick brought him shortly before her divorce from Harold F. McCormick to handle her business affairs and make architectural improvements on her properties.

Herriot and Briton Chat At Maison Victor Hugo

St. Helier, Island of Jersey, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot of France and Home Secretary Sir Herbert Samuel of Great Britain today visited the Maison Victor Hugo, which is now a hotel, and inspected the room the French writer occupied. For some time they chatted amicably on the terrace.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Perth, Australia, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The great gold mine in western Australia, "Sons of Gwalia," which Herbert Hoover estbalished in 1898, when he was a young mining engineer, is doomed. The reason is that production is failing and capital has been reduced by half, to $935,000. The mine was one of the richest in the Coolgardie field. There are still a dozen or so old hands in the Gwalia who remember Hoover.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Queen Alexandrine is suffering from a severe cold, it was learned today. She and the king, who are at their summer residence at Marselisborg, in Jutland, were to have returned to Copenhagen this week, but her illness will delay their departure.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The red and yellow sesquiplane, Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen hoped to fly across the Atlantic only to crash in the waters of Paradise Sound, was towed into Argentia today by the government steamer Argyle. After supervising shipment of the craft back to the United States Solberg and Petersen will come to St. Johns and proceed to New York, their starting point.

London, Ont., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Natives of the Isle of Man are pouring into this city today for the fifth convention of the North American Manx Association. Under the presidency of Dr. J. J. Moore of Chicago, the convention will last for three days.

Ponce, Puerto Rico, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Eighteen persons were killed and 38 injured today when a motor truck loaded with delegates to a meeting of the Liberal party skidded and rolled over a cliff.

Liverpool, Eng., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—As a feature of the postoffice, telephone and telegraph exhibition here, H. Graham White, assistant postmaster general, talked by telephone today with Captain Latta, master of the liner Empress of Britain, 1,000 miles at sea.

Vienna, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Rudolf Datelmaier, an 11-year-old boy whose heart was pierced by three bird shot in a hunting accident on Sunday, today was reported recovering after a remarkable surgical feat by Dr. Gustav Felsenreich of the University of Vienna. The surgeon sewed up the three wounds in the still beating heart and later removed shot from the wounded lad's other organs. The entire operating was carried out with the utmost speed and a fatal hemorrhage was forestalled.

Rome, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Hereafter the shouted Fascist salute will be reserved for Premier Mussolini alone; all others must be content with the Roman salute of the upraised arm, which may be given only while standing.

Hamburg, Germany, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Judge Heinrich Wibel, who presided at the so-called Calmette trial last winter, committed suicide today at his hotel. He had been suffering from a nervous disorder for some time. In the trial two prominent physicians were sentenced to prison terms for negligence in having improperly administered an antituberculosis serum which caused the death of 76 infants.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—R. H. Buss, representing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, arrived today to study Puerto Rico's application for a loan. He spent the morning conferring with bankers.

HITLER AGAIN DENIED GOVERNMENT OFFICE

Reichstag Meets Today, but Interest Follows Papen's Visit to Neudeck.

Berlin, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—On the eve of tomorrow's first session of the new Reichstag, Chancellor Franz von Papen told Adolf Hitler today that he would not be permitted to participate in the government.

Hitler's National Socialists have 230 seats in the legislature, by far the strongest party representation. Because of this position of dominance, the Nazi chieftain has been demanding leadership in the government.

Hitler talked things over at luncheon today with Chancellor von Papen and Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher. From a usually authoritative source the Associated Press learned the Nazi leader was told it was too late to consider his proposals for participation in the cabinet. The government surrounded the luncheon meeting with deepest secrecy.

Leave for Neudeck.

After the luncheon the chancellor and the defense minister, accompanied by Interior Minister Wilhelm von Gayl and Presidential Secretary Otto Meissner, left for Neudeck in east Prussia, to get President Hindenburg's approval of the Baronial cabinet's plans for the regeneration of Germany.

Ordinarily the attention of those awaiting political decisions would be focused on Berlin, where not only the Reichstag opens tomorrow, but also the Prussian Diet.

Attention Diverted.

But Chancellor von Papen stole the parliamentary thunder by going to Neudeck on the very day when the Reichstag and the Diet expected him to appear in the seats of the chancellor and the state premier.

Thus attention has been effectively diverted to the real source of authority in Germany today—Paul von Hindenburg.

In political circles it was generally taken for granted that the new Reichstag would be dissolved unless it supports the Von Papen cabinet or sets up majority government with ministers responsible and acceptable to Von Hindenburg and with a constructive program ready for action.

Spread Work Body Sets Up Its Offices

Chase, Young's Associate, Placed in Charge of Headquarters.

(Associated Press.)

Headquarters of the central committee named by President Hoover's conference to coordinate the business revival work of groups in the twelve Federal Reserve Districts was set up yesterday in the Treasury Department.

Chairman Henry M. Robinson, of Los Angeles, was given an office and Everett Chase, the executive secretary, associate of Owen D. Young, was placed in charge.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

An elaborate hostess pajama with trousers and under part of bodice in cardinal purple velvet, apron effect peplum in garnet velvet lined in gold lah-may, and sleeves attached to a scarf effect which ties and hangs down the back, of gold lah-may. Girdle of the three colors. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—If you haven't an ivory hat in your fall wardrobe . . . well, you just gotta have one, that's all.

No, not ivory that comes from 'nelephants, dum belllllll . . . ivory in color! And shaggy, too, oh, looking 'sif some one dipped the hat into leavings from a paint brush factory. All sorts of satins and taupe and satin felts have this very new rough, shaggy surface, and are made up into toques and turbans. The machine stitching of these rough-surfaced fabrics is done in even, quarter-inch spacings, and, of course, the machine stitching is ever so ornamental, as well as useful . . . to hold the shaggy pieces to the smooth surface, you see. These ivory-colored and shaggy-surfaced hats are taking the place of the inevitable white beret of summer . . . and bridging the season for the wearer 'till darker fabrics will be required.

* * * *

Ah, royal color! Purple, ever associated with royalty, is so very royal in itself, that one never looks at it without feeling the echo of its past splendor.

I love purple! But one so seldom has a chance to wear it, really. And it is true likewise that it is a hard color to wear. So all in all, it's bound to be an individual color, little seen, always admired.

The elegante who would wear a hostess pajama like the one I designed for you today would have to be a regal sort of person, absolutely poised, and of decided personal coloring. For the royal purple velvet that makes the trousers and bodice would snuff out a milder personality. Then the sleeves and upper bodice, in the scarf effect that ties and hangs down the back, requires regal personality and erect carriage. This scarf and sleeve effect is of gold lam-may, very supple and when removed shows a plain, sleeveless and decollete bodice top of the royal purple. And the peplum, designed for color and charm but playing the very important role of wrinkle protector for the pajama trousers, is of garnet color velvet, of course, and lined in the lah-may. You've guessed that the girdle is of three, the three colors that make the rest, haven't you . . . and that the apron effect peplum is not removable. And, oh, yes, it's a Dah-ray design.

* * * *

And a coat dress buckle must match the buttons of the dress, 'specially if both are brown mottled tortoise shell . . . as is perhaps your cigarette case and holder? Or, of course, you can have wooden or metal buckles, too, just so they match the buttons.

If you ever wanted an original design to use in any which way, my deah—you would pay $20 to $40 for it. So, and what does that all mean? That you have to send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post right away before you forget it or there aren't any more. Any more whats? Any more leaflets with Dah-ray designs on them, that can be transferred to this or that anything at all. Yes, and some directions for how to transfer them and suggestions for what to transfer them onto are in it. Good leaflet to have, I should say . . . what would you say?

* * * *

When the two buttons on a short coat rise above the normal waistline, and when the seamed-on basques show the upward movement, too, I should say that the directoire effects are not still with us, wouldn't you?

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

DISTRIBUTIONAL STORMS.

THE strategy of Contract Bridge presents many interesting examples of the differences in temperament of players, or what one Bridge writer calls "the reaction of the players to the cards they hold."

In a recent Duplicate team match I saw a player, ranked as reasonably expert, enmesh himself and his partner into a contract, which probably should never have been reached, but which was made through great skill and accuracy. That is one of the rewards of overbidding. Because of it, situations arise requiring the most meticulous attention to the lay of the cards and the greatest ingenuity in fulfilling a contract or in holding the loss to a minimum. The hand upon which I wish to comment is the following:

West—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ J 6 5 4 ♡ Q ◇ K Q ♣ K 8 7 6 4 3
♠ — ♡ A K 10 6 5 2 ◇ A 8 6 3 ♣ Q 9 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 8 3 2 ♡ J 8 4 ◇ 10 7 5 ♣ J 5
	♠ A Q 9 7 ♡ 9 7 3 ◇ J 9 4 2 ♣ A 10

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
	1♡	Double (1)	Pass
2♠ (2)	3♡	3♠ (3)	Pass
Pass	4♡ (4)	4♠ (5)	Double (6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) A purely psychological Double. North hopes thereby to prevent his opponents from bidding game.
(2) A justified strength response to the Takeout Double.
(3) This bid is questionable, but in view of the distributional values, even though North's original Double was unsound, is probably justified in a team game. It would be unfair to partner, who may have a very good hand, not to give another chance. Besides, North fears that West can make three hearts—in fact, anticipates that four hearts can be made by the opponents.
(4) Refusing to be shut out, suspecting the nature of North's bid.
(5) North feels that he has forced the opponents into a game which he thinks they can make. He decides that the match is probably lost in any event unless it can be saved by a cheap sacrifice at four spades.
(6) Justified, in view of partner's strong bidding.

The Opening lead was the heart King, and West then shifted to a club, South winning with the Ace and ruffing a heart in the Dummy. The Knave of spades was then led, covered by East with the King, and won by Declarer with the Ace. The fact that East held five spades originally was revealed when West failed to follow suit. South next led a diamond, which West won and returned the suit. This trick was won in the Dummy, and another spade led and won in the closed hand. The Knave of diamonds was then laid down, and Declarer's last heart ruffed with Dummy's last trump. The King of clubs was next led, followed by a club from Dummy, which East, holding nothing but trumps, was forced to ruff. The Declarer over-ruffed, laid down the remaining spade, and conceded East the last trick with his long trump.

Hands in which an opponent holds great length in trumps may appear to present great difficulties in the development, but actually East's trump length in this instance furnished the Declarer an easy clew to the correct method of play.

Today's Pointer.

Hands which offer an early opportunity for a count of the distribution, while they may appear difficult on the surface, if they are not entirely hopeless, actually offer to the Declarer the least opportunity for error. The Declarer always knows the strength in the opposing hands, and when he can determine the location of the opposing forces he is in a position to make his plans accordingly.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

	♠ 7 5 ♡ K ◇ A J 10 5 ♣ Q J 10 8 7 2
♠ Q ♡ J 10 9 7 6 5 3 ◇ 8 7 4 2 ♣ 9	N W E S	♠ 8 6 2 ♡ 2 ◇ Q 9 6 3 ♣ A K 6 5 4
	♠ A K J 10 9 4 3 ♡ A Q 8 4 ◇ K ♣ 3

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Her Most Unusual Feature Widow's Peak—So Kay Francis Makes the Most of It.

INSTEAD of hiding an unusual feature, our film favorites make the most of it, "play it up" so to speak. That is how they win distinction.

So many readers have asked me how to fix their hair in order to hide a widow's peak. One woman even wanted to have it shaved away. Yet many beauty connoisseurs contend that this is definitely a sign of beauty. Since seeing Kay Francis we must certainly agree with them. Miss Francis wears her hair in different ways, in a big loose criss-cross coiffure, adaptable part, either center or straight back. Or brushed back of her ears without rewaving and presto another change! I've seen her do it, and so simply too, because she has a diagonal and loose wave.

She has her wave set every day and sleeps in pins and a veil over her coiffure. After work she drops in at the hairdressers on the set to have her hair set again.

I can almost hear some readers protesting "dropping in at the hairdressers everyday—that can hardly help to balance the already-underweight budget." True. But with a little practice every woman can learn to keep her hair set and have a new wave put in only on occasion, or after shampooing at most. Just pinching and coaxing, and the pins and veil or net. And a good time to do it is at the end of the day whether it be after work or after a social program.

Kay Francis' skin is really quite tan, her face, shoulders, back and arms are almost a berry brown. Yet it photographs a gardenia whiteness. Surprised? Well, that's one of the camera peculiarities. Brown photographs white. Sheets, tablecloths, towels, and so on are nearly always yellow, and even men's shirts are yellow so that they will photograph white. Pink, blue and yellow film white too, but real white films gray. Miss Francis doesn't seem to freckle much otherwise, but does get an adorable bunch of freckles on her nose.

While Miss Francis prefers tennis or sailing as her favorite outdoor hobbies, I daresay she gets most of her exercise romping with her dog. A splendid way to keep slender, and have some fun too. When I saw her she had her dachshund on her lap. His name is Peter. Off the set her dog is always with her. She had a Scottie, but it was stolen; she advertised in her secretary's name, broadcast over the radio, but nothing was ever heard about it and she is so sad over the incident she won't even talk about it. And I for one don't blame her. For I have a Scotch terrier myself. There's more exercise to a day at the beach or countryside with a dog than a week of daily dozens, and infinitely more fun. Try it if you have a dog. I started out to tell you about her coiffure, but thought you'd be interested to know more about Miss Francis. Hope you were.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"VIRGO."

IF August 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:10 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8:15 p. m.

A proper balancing of the profit-and-loss account for August 30 should show more credits than debits with appreciable dividends of happiness and material success. Do not take all credit to self. Luck will be on your side. Few quarrels, and a general, genial atmosphere. Exceptionally good time for personal interests.

Children born on this August 30 will have eager natures, with every cell of their bodies alive. They will be rather wearing on some of their slower-pacing associates. They will be equally clever in the classroom grind or at dance and song. An easy popularity will be theirs, although they will have no desire to be anyone's pet.

You have too radiactive a nature, if born on August 30, to live a heavy or stolid life, and whatever you may become, you will never become static. As a child you were too credulous, and a born hero worshiper. Life has made you more questioning and less able to have "crushes." Your life will be too short for you to take up all the things which seem attractive for you to pursue. Your versatility of mind will drive you into many things, but not always to success. Always, however, you effervesce anew, and guide your enthusiasm on to some new interest or hobby.

People of your temperament seldom think about conserving their energies until it is too late. You should take care not to let your spirits run away with you. Most August 30 people are of a wiry constitution, but are not entirely immune to physical abuse. You are brisk and efficient at your real work, and like to get things done and over. Duties undone always spoil your leisure hours, to which you look forward as a time to read, gossip or play. Your tastes are not highbrow, and you have the good taste not to pretend that they are. You are probably less envious of your neighbor than the average person.

How to Keep Well

THE COMPLAINING HABIT.

A PAIN is a complaint. When a person experiences pain, something is manhandling a nerve and that part of the anatomy is complaining about the insult or injury. Incidentally, pain is a protective agency. It tells us that something is being injured. The injury may be involving other tissues far more vital to our welfare than nerves, but tissues that are dumb or else, instead of being able to cry out, can register complaint only mildly or in a way that is not easily understood. In comparison, the nerves speak in words of one syllable, and they know how to capture attention.

However, it does not follow that the causes of all pains are important. Sometimes the nerves yell loudest when they alone are being manhandled and all other tissues are escaping. Importance is not in proportion to the amount of pain, nor even to its quality—that is, not always.

Pain is sometimes not truthful. In fact, it often is a great liar. A mother quail may adopt a ruse to toll us away from her young. She may be a liar, but she is forgivable. A pain may point its finger in one direction, while the place we should concentrate our attention lies the other way. It is not good judgment to believe all that pain tells us.

However, we must admit that pain is very serviceable—to physicians, at least. The patient may think he is paying too much for the help his pain is to him, but, even for the sufferer, pain may be of service.

Nevertheless, we want to register objection to the complaining habit. It is always a nuisance, and who can say anything in its favor? We object to all complaining habits—to the groucher, the social kicker, the potential discontent, and the man who thinks the world owes him a living but is behind on its payments. In this instance, the objection lies against the pains that persist after the cause is removed. A man has a leg amputated and thereafter feels a pain in the place where his brain says his toes belong. Another person has had a pain in the abdomen. It lasted a long time. The cause disappears. He has acquired the habit, and he continues to feel uncomfortable and to complain about it. Another man is in an accident. He is hurt. He sues for damages. His case is not reached on the court call for two years. His pains keep up until after he has been on the witness stand and told about them. By this time the pain habit has become fixed and he is a confirmed complainer.

This line of moralizing was suggested by a letter from a man whose history illustrates just the opposite picture. This man has been out of work a long time. He was depressed, melancholy, and hopeless. His introspection was adding fuel to the flame of his discontent. He suffered an injury. He was jolted out of his introspection—knocked out of his ruts of depression. His eyes turned out instead of in. And when this happened he gained courage and pep.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Department of Agriculture.)

Almost anyone, it would seem, should be able to cook an ear of corn. But, as with every form, there are "trade secrets" about handling and cooking this always delectable summer vegetable. Those who live in the country and grow their own corn will tell you, to begin with, that to be at its best the corn should be cooked almost the minute it is picked. If you live in a town and have to buy your corn, you can at least select the freshest looking ears and cook them as soon as possible after you bring them home. The sugar in corn undergoes changes after the ear leavea the stalk, and these changes affect the flavor and the nature of the food elements contained in the corn.

Again, corn shoufll never be overcooked. Leave it in the salted boiling water from 5 to 10 minutes—just long enough to set the "milk." The exact time depends on the variety. Small-kernaled sweet corn takes the least time, and close grained kinds like Country Gentleman or Golden Bantam take longer. Corn darkens and becomes tough if you overcook it.

Most people serve corn right on the cob on a large platter covered with a napkin. Score the grains for eating, to avoid the hulls, when serving corn on the cob. It can be served cut off after cooking, or it can be cooked in milk, cut or uncut. Left-over cooked corn can be cut from the ears and made into a great many different dishes. Among the most substantial are corn pudding and corn fritters. Both of these dishes can also be made from raw corn, grated or cut. The older ears will do for the purpose. The combinations of corn with other vegetables, such succotash (corn with lima beans), tomatoes with corn, peppers stuffed with corn, corn in salad, are all good, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which also suggests fried corn and corn chowder. Use the fresh corn for these dishes as long as you can get it and then you can use canned corn.

When you have to shuck corn, spread out newspapers, and gather all the debris up easily. Use a knife or vegetable brush to get every bit of silk off the ears. For tamales and corn at picnics, save some of the inside husks for wrapping the mixture or the whole ears.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

DELIGHTFULLY becoming, smart and wearable is this coat type frock for late summer and early fall.

Its lines are so fluid and slimming.

There are several ways of carrying out this model. For instance, I hyacinth blue crepe silk, it's stunning for late summer.

For fall, a Bordeaux-red tweed is sportive and decidedly new and smart.

Black crepe satin is another nice medium.

2 MEN DENIED PLEAS IN TEA HOUSE DEATH

Wallace and Zalenski Are Remanded to Jail by Baltimore Judge.

Two Baltimore men accused of part in the Bladensburg tea house slaying last fall lost the second round of their fight for freedom yesterday when a Baltimore judge denied their habeas corpus pleas and sent them to jail without bond to await action of the Prince Georges County grand jury.

The men, John Wallace and James Zalenski, alias James Bun, are charged with the murder of Grover Amick, who was shot when five men attempted to hold up the Old Colonial tea house. They were arrested in Baltimore in June and held for the county grand jury at a magistrate's hearing. Their attorney then filed the habeas corups pleas in Baltimore on grounds that evidence against the men was not conclusive.

But Judge Eugene O'Dunne, after hearing the evidence presented by State's Attorney Alan Bowie, decided there was sufficient evidence to return them to jail. Two girls, Josephine Schubert and Mamie De Meo, were called as Government witnesses.

The young women testified Wallace took them to the house several days before the shooting, but they could not identify either Wallace or Zalenski as having been in the holdup gang. However, a transcription of their testimony was ordered sent to Federal authorities for use on possible Mann act charges. Two men were previously indicted for murder in the case, but the case against one was nolle prossed. The shooting, which resulted in the wounding of five other persons as well as Amick's death, inaugurated a Federal investigation of white slavery.

Marie Nicholson, 2, of Mount Rainier, Md., is still in a critical condition at Children's Hospital, where she was taken yesterday with a fractured skull after an automobile accident in front of her home.

According to police, the child darted into the street in the path of a car driven by Wesley Markward, 18, of Brentwood, whose 16-year-old sister was killed in an automobile accident several weeks ago. The youth is being held, pending outcome of the child's injuries. The Nicholson girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Nicholson, of 3216 Ash street.

Three months before they were due, $10,000 worth of municipal bonds of Mount Rainier, Md., have been retired by the town to save interest, B. E. Sager, town clerk, announced yesterday. The securities were due to be paid on December 1, but by paying them in advance the town will save $105 in interest charges, Sager said.

This is the third successive year in which Mount Rainier has collected money to pay its bonds before maturity, with a consequent saving in interest. The recent payment reduces the town's indebtedness to $287,000. In December it is planned to retire another $10,000, making total bond payments this year of $39,000.

The man behind the wheel of a moving automobile is not always driving it, Judge J. Chew Sheriff ruled yesterday in Hyattsville police court in releasing Horace J. Pollard on charges of reckless driving and having no permit.

According to Sergt. M. D. Brubaker, who made the arrest, Pollard was sitting in the driver's seat of the car when he overhauled it, but a girl sitting beside him was steering the machine. Judge Sheriff said that the girl, who was not arrested, was actually in control of the car, and released Pollard with an admonition to return to his home in Roanoke, Va.

Last year's tax rate of 20 cents per $100 in Berwyn Heights will remain in effect through the coming financial year, the board of town commissioners has decided. This is the average rate for a town of this size, although town taxes in the county range from 10 cents to $1 per $100.

Age Holds Up Plan to Wed At Carnival

When James Martin Lowe, of Cabin John Park, Md., who is to wed Miss Ada Loraine Guillot, also of Cabin John Park, with all the pomp and circumstance the Rockville Fire Department and allied merchants can provide, arrived at Rockville courthouse yesterday, he walked over to Deputy Clerk W. H. Wiley to obtain the marriage license.

Mr. Wiley discovered the youth was a year too young to marry without his parents' consent. So young Lowe had to return home without the license, but he promised to return today with properly filled out consent blank.

The young couple will be wed as one of the features of the program for the first annual carnival of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department, which starts Saturday at the Rockville Fair Grounds. The ceremony will be performed at 8 p. m. Monday on the carnival grounds.

Triple Collision Costs Washington Man $400

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 29.—A Washington motorist paid nearly $400 in fines and damages as the result of a three-car collision or the Crain highway, 4 miles north of Pigeon House Inn.

Joseph P. Dimon, the offender, was driving south along the highway when he struck a machine, driven by Cornelius Bond, of Cockeysville, Md., proceeding in the opposite direction. Bond's car in turn crashed into another autobomile driven by William Hardy, of Baltimore, which was directly behind the Dimon car. Dimon was arrested by State Police Corpl. James O. Shockley on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicants and reckless driving. For these offenses Dimon was fined $177.90. The fines were paid and Corpl. Shockley said Dimon afterward paid $90 and $125, respectively, to the drivers of the other cars to cover the damages they sustained.

ALEXANDRIA GROUP MEETS AT TAVERN

Tentative Constitution and By-Laws Read and Adoption Is Delayed.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The recently organized Alexandria Association, Inc., met last night in Gadsby's Tavern, presided over by Charles R. Hooff, president. Other officers are Ward Brown, secretary, and Col. Charles B. Moore, treasurer.

The meeting was attended by approximately 50 persons, and the tentative constitution and by-laws read and laid over for definite action at the next meeting.

The first article sets forth the object of the organization as the preservation and development of Alexandria and vicinity; to promote architectural development, restoration and preservation. To promote historical research and preservation of records; to promote park and riverfront development; to promote residential development; to promote social, civic and charitable development.

The first meeting several weeks ago listed 25 members, and additional names added last night included Mrs. Paul Tupper, A. M. Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Mangum Weeks, Mr. and Mrs. John Howland, Mrs. Ella Lee Fairfax Davis, Miss Harriet Holthur, Edward Van Deventer, Miss Mary Harlow, Mrs. Ethel Snodgrass, Thomas Carter, William Robert Adam, Dr. Joseph Waterman, David N. Hulfish, Ira Smith, Miss Gault Norton, Mrs. J. K. M. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hiett, Mrs. Byrd Willis, Mr. and Mrs. John Howard, Miss Helen Norris Cummings, Mrs. Frank M. Dillard, Mr. and Mrs. Lowndes Jackson, Maj. Raymond Lee, Mrs. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzhugh Tallman and John Carlyle Herbert Hooff.

Gas Firms Accept Cuts With Protest

Rate Slashes Effected in Prince Georges and Montgomery.

The rate slashes prescribed for the two gas companies serving Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties have been accepted by the companies under protest, the Maryland Public Service Commission announced yesterday.

Prince Georges is served by the Washington Suburban Gas Co. of Hyattsville, while Montgomery County is served by the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County.

The gas companies declared that they do not admit that the contentions of the commission are in any way correct, and President Marcey L. Sperry, of the Washington Gas Light Co., stated that the Montgomery County rates are inconsistent with a fair valuation of the company's property in that county. He said that the county company operates under entirely different circumstances than the Washington plant, where a similar reduction was ordered by the District Public Utilities Commission.

Hellmuth to Address Alexandria Rotarians

C. Raymond Hellmuth, one of the directors of the Alexandria Rotary Club, will give a vocational talk on his business at the luncheon meeting of the club at 12:30 o'clock today in George Mason Hotel.

The weekly chronicler for today will be Julian F. Chauncey. For the "Rotary Ann" supper to take place on September 27 the following special committee will work with Lawrence E. Roland, program director: Col. Clarence M. Deems, S. S. Brooks, H. H. Martin, Robert Bogle and Everett Swan. The wives of the members of the committee will serve with them.

HEARING IS ORDERED IN B. E. CLARK CASE

To Be Held Sept. 8; Motion Asks Venue Change for Former Official.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

A hearing on the motion for a change of venue in the cases of Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners, indicted on 97 counts alleging misappropriation of county funds, will be held September 8 at 10 a. m., in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville. The order for the hearing was signed yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter.

The full bench of judges, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard, will sit at the hearing. The motion for a change of venue was filed by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, following failure of a jury in circuit court to agree in the first trial.

Mr. Clark was tried early in June on the first of the 97 embezzlement indictments, and the jury failed to agree, the ballot being eleven to one for acquittal.

State's Attorney Prescott subsequently filed a motion for removal and filed the affidavits of 35 citizens of the county alleging that in their belief the State could not receive a fair and impartial trial.

Arlington County Board to Meet.

There will be a special meeting tomorrow night of the Arlington County board. It is said that the meeting is being called for the purpose of permitting the chairman, Harry A. Fellows, to sign the monthly pay roll due for payment on Thursday.

Warehouse Blaze Halted in Rockville

$4,000 Damage Is Done to Supply Building of Ward Brothers.

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday caused $4,000 damage to the warehouse of Ward Bros. at Rockville, Md. The fire was kept from spreading by the Rockville and Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Departments. Silver Spring also responded, but encountered engine trouble on the way.

The fire was discovered about 1:30 p. m. by Donald Lambert, of Rockville, who told employes of the Ward store. The fire engines were summoned by telephone. The fire had gained too much headway for the firemen to save the warehouse, a frame structure, but the flames were kept from spreading to nearby buildings.

The warehouse contained two carloads of cement, a carload of lime, and twine, fence posts and wire, several tons of hay and feed and other supplies.

Cherrydale Man Held On Federal Rum Count

Floyd E. Walleker, 34, of 22 Preston avenue, Cherrydale, Va., was arrested yesterday on a Federal warrant charging possession, transporting and sale of five gallons of alcohol, by County Officers Hugh E. Jones and Norman Carson. The warrant was sworn out by J. Barton Philips for the eastern district of Virginia.

Walleker is being held in Arlington County Jail pending arrival of the United States marshal. Police say he will be taken to Alexandria today.

Barley's Successor Chosen.

Attorney James Reece Duncan has been appointed commissioner of accounts for the corporation court of Alexandria, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Louis C. Barley.

LEE BOULEVARD JOB TO START IN 30 DAYS

Surfacing Will Be Laid on Right of Way That Is Already Reserved.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Surfacing of the Lee boulevard through Arlington County over the right of way thus far obtained will be started within the next 30 days, according to H. G. Shirley, of the Virginia State Highway Commission.

To give a 40-foot surfaced roadway, it has been decided to abandon the original plan for concrete in favor of the more economical oil and crushed stone surface.

While the commission is still faced with the problem of the construction of an over-pass at the intersection of the boulevard with the Washington Old Dominion Railway at Glencarlyn, it has been tentatively decided to proceed with the work of providing a temporary detour if more satisfactory arrangements can not be made within the next few weeks.

The boulevard, which has already been graded, extends from Lyon Park to Falls Church. Efforts are now being made by the Arlington County Board to acquire the necessary right of way to carry the boulevard to Fort Myer at a point where it will meet Pershing drive.

No convict labor will be used to surface the roadway because of the skill that is required for this class of construction, Commissioner Shirley says.

Arlington Auxiliary to Meet.

The American Legion Auxiliary of Arlington Post, No. 139, will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the Clarendon Methodist Church, Taylor and Clarendon avenues.

"Nature in the Raw"—inspired by the savage ferocity of a death-battle between a vicious tiger and the bloodthirsty Black Panther —the terror of the Java jungles.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

THE PUBLIC BUYING STOCKS.

In less than two months the price of stocks has increased 100 per cent. Many are wondering whether this rise is justifiable and permanent, or whether it is the result of professional manipulation. For seven weeks the croakers have been warning that industrial activity did not justify the security boom and that reaction was sure to set in. The answer of the stock market has been continued advance.

Where is the buying strength coming from? Bankers and brokers who have been analyzing this market find that the rise is due to the greatest cash buying movement of securities ever recorded. Undoubtedly it is the first, big tangible evidence of restored confidence. The millions of investors and speculators who became familiar with stocks and bonds during 1928-29 did not have to be told that the securities in which they had dealt at many times existing prices had fallen to levels that were devoid of reason.

All that was necessary to bring them back into the market was assurance that dangers which threatened had passed. When there was no longer fear of destructive legislation or foreign depletion of the gold reserve, and when constructive measures were set in motion to safeguard banks and the credit of the nation, the resulting assurance was not long in manifesting itself. There has never been any general loss of faith in the essential wealth of resources, or the soundness of American institutions.

The restored confidence in security values in the United States was not limited to Americans. From the initial upturn foreign buying has been an important factor in the market. Orders from England, Holland and France have poured into New York from investors who probably have appreciated more keenly than many at home the unique position of the dollar, which has weathered the depression unscathed, with the American gold standard stronger than ever.

But neither foreign purchases nor professional trading could sustain a market that exceeds more than 3,000,000 shares a day. It is resumption of buying by the American investing public that has maintained the rising tide of values. A considerable proportion of the buying is bringing money into circulation that is doubly effective since it has been hoarded. Brokers report that many payments for stock have been made with gold and bills that evidently have been held in safety deposit boxes. A large proportion of the purchases is for less than 200 shares each, indicating that buying is by no means confined to the wealthy. Unrecorded odd-lot buying has been amounting to 1,000,000 shares a day. Also, as evidence that buying is not largely professional, brokers' loans have increased only $11,000,000 since the first week in July.

That the enhancement of security values has outrun the actual improvement of business no one questions, but that is not an unusual procedure as a depression wanes. Just as the renewed purchase of stocks and bonds came when the public was assured beyond question of financial stability, it now as surely foreshadows general confidence in the continued upward trend of commodity prices and the gradual resumption of normal industrial operations, with the consequent expansion of employment. Evidence from every section of the country accumulates to show that Americans are now certain that the plans for stimulating industry, commerce and agriculture will be as effective as the program which saved the financial structure of the nation.

A BIG JOB IN MANCHURIA.

Japan's intense activity in the manufacture of large stocks of war supplies of all kinds has aroused much speculation and some apprehension on the part of Far Eastern neighbors. Japan offers no confidences with regard to her military plans, but evidences multiply that rather than contemplating anything in the way of extensive new conquests she will be occupied for some time to come in pacifying territory already staked out. The tension on the Siberian border has been lessened, though Russia is somewhat concerned anew regarding Count Araki's pointed hints as to the possibility of including Mongolia in Japan's "peace" plans, and China fears that Tokyo may find Jehol necessary to the rounding out of the state of Manchukuo.

The surprise attack upon Mukden is an indication of how far from resigned the Chinese residents of Manchuria are to the usurpation of their province by Japan under the guise of Pu-Yi's authority. It is clear now that subduing Manchuria to her domination has turned out to be a much bigger job than Japan bargained on. Curiously, experienced observers of Eastern affairs say that another under estimate by Japanese forces has played no little part in complicating the Manchurian situation. That was the attack on Shanghai. The unexpected resistance there, the weeks that the Nineteenth Route Army successfully held off the Japanese, did more than anything else to give the Chinese confidence in themselves and at the same time remove the halo of invincibility from Japanese troops.

When Japan returned in force to Manchuria it was to find a new spirit of opposition, with guerrilla bands multiplying everywhere. It is for the complete pacification of Manchukuo that Japan now finds the need of vast quantities of additional war material, airplanes and mechanized units to cover the extensive areas beset with opposition forces which do not meet Japan's armies in battle array, but fall upon small garrisons, or make flank attacks and then scatter to the woods and hills. Manchuria will only be entirely subdued by a large force operating over a long period, and meanwhile these operations not only are costly, and keep Chinese animosity and boycotts active, but prevent the economic exploitation of Manchuria which Japan expected to be enjoying ere this.

Japan publishes no figures regarding the number of troops now in Manchuria, but observers estimate them as high as 80,000 of all arms. They are busily engaged in pursuing elusive bands. The duration of the opposition to Japan depends largely upon the ability of the guerrillas to obtain funds and supplies from sympathizers and loot. Grain and goods seized in Eastern Manchuria have been sold in Siberia, and newly armed native forces, fighting half-heartedly at best against their countrymen, have contributed to the war supplies. Anti-Japanese elements among the Koreans send both men and supplies, as do Communists both in and out of Russia. In the west aid for the opposition to Japan comes from both China and Inner Monoglia. So it is clear the roving bands of Manchuria are not entirely dependent upon what they can take from poor villagers.

RULES GOVERNING LOANS.

The rules under which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will extend loans to States, municipalities and private corporations for self-liquidating projects are well based upon the law, and will conduce to relief of unemployment. No loans will be furnished for a project which is to be paid for by taxation. If a State or municipality is able to undertake new construction under its taxing power the project should not be subjected to the burden of fees or tolls. A State or municipality can, however, obtain funds if the liquidation is to be effected by means of tolls, fees, rents or other charges upon the project itself.

No loans will be made, of course, on projects constructed, which presumably have been financed. In any event, they would not provide further employment, which is the chief object of the relief afforded by Congress.

The borrower must agree in writing to limit the hours of workmen to 30 hours a week, and not to employ convict labor. It was feared when the Federal loan system was discussed in Congress that some of the States would obtain a loan and then employ convict labor. Preference must be given to ex-service men in the employment of labor.

Corporations will be required to exhibit balance sheets, a statement of earnings, names of directors and chief stockholders, &c., in order to establish qualifications for a loan. States and municipalities must furnish data regarding their condition, tax rate, &c., and a statement of the amount of taxes uncollected. If a State or municipality is in hard straits because of its own laxity or mismanagement the Reconstruction Finance Corporation can not be expected to send good money after bad.

These rules make it reasonably certain that Federal relief money will be devoted to genuine relief of unemployment, by enabling public and private agencies to build new projects which will pay for themselves.

A MIDSUMMER GUEST.

How did Shakespeare ever manage to write "A Midsummer Night's Dream" when he knew nothing of Montagu Norman? Puck and Bottom the Weaver are good enough in their way, but how much more material they would have had if Montagu Norman had been in the plot!

Montagu Norman is governor of the Bank of England, but apparently he does no work. He is said to have an office in Threadneedle Street, but no one has ever seen him there. He spends his time, apparently, flitting from one shadowy rendezvous to another, girdling the earth in a few seconds, and sometimes, like Sir Boyle Roche's bird, he is in two places at once. His chief delight is to baffle newspaper reporters, and their chief delight is to identify him beneath his innumerable disguises.

Mr. Norman recently arrived at Boston under the traveling name of "Prof. Clarence Skinner." He was detected by the ship reporters and was promptly accused of being governor of the Bank of England. He confessed to this, but would not confess that he was on any errand at all. Before he could be pinned down to anything he had disappeared. Later he was reported at Bar Harbor, and still later in New York. There were rumors of conferences with Governor Harrison of the Federal Reserve Bank, of appointments to meet Ambassador Mellon, of flittings to Washington, &c., but nothing definite was ever ascertained. Whether he travels under the name of Skinner or Norman no one seems to know.

Last year the disappearing governor of the Bank of England was supposed to be one of the pillars of the British cabinet in the Bank of International Settlements, which was attempting to put the Hoover moratorium into effect. France blocked the negotiations by insisting upon political guarantees from Germany as the price of economic relief. At the crucial moment Mr. Norman, or Prof. Skinner, or somebody masquerading as the governor of the Bank of England took the side of France, and made politics the sine qua non of relief for Germany. Great was the amazement and chagrin of Ramsay MacDonald and the stupefaction of Washington; but subsequently some doubt was raised, and no one yet knows whether Puck or Bottom the Weaver was at the bottom of it all.

A few weeks later the reporters asserted that Mr. Norman had come over here to make arrangements to prevent England from slipping off the gold standard. Wrong again! For England slipped, and so did Mr. Norman—into parts unknown. Now the reporters are certain that Mr. Norman is here for the purpose of obtaining the aid of the United States in placing England back upon the gold standard. How can they be right, who are always wrong? Why do they persist in picturing Mr. Norman as a busy financial genius, acting in behalf of the Bank of England, when he has never been known to do anything but travel? Like Thompson of Angels, Mr. Norman cares not o'ermuch for attention. He would prefer to be let alone while he pursues his hobby—the baffling of reporters.

Midsummer is not midsummer when Mr. Norman fails to visit these shores in one or more of his ingenious disguises. His visits stir the imagination of men who are ranked a little below Shakespeare in that quality. If he evokes from them such charming tales of mystery, what would not Shakespeare have done, if he had known the governor of the Bank of England?

TO HALT WAR IN CHACO.

If Bolivia and Paraguay should persist in their belligerent attitude in the Gran Chaco, the neighboring countries of Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Chile will consider the adoption of more extreme measures to prevent the conflict. Negotiations before five powers looking to a settlement of the ancient boundary dispute were in progress in Washington when this latest tense situation arose. Clashes between the small garrisons in the wild Chaco region aroused intense feeling and threats of war in both La Paz and Asuncion.

When the arbitration sessions were suspended, by Bolivia and Paraguay, all the other American republics joined in an appeal to the two nations to avoid a conflict at arms and resume the boundary negotiations. These and other endeavors to bring about a peaceful solution so far have brought no results. The four important adjoining nations on the Atlantic and Pacific are now reported to be considering a declaration that a state of war already exists in the Gran Chaco, and affirming their neutrality. This would enable them to shut off the entry of war supplies to both nations.

Such action could be taken under the Hague convention, even though there had been no formal declaration of war, and would be practically the establishment of a blockade. This could be made readily effective, since the four nations surround Bolivia and Paraguay, the two countries of South America which have no sea coasts. If Argentina should declare neutrality it would close her northern border to the shipments of food supplies to Paraguay, while Brazil could stop supplies going into the Chaco from the north. On the west coast Bolivian material could be intercepted by Peru and Chile at all Pacific ports.

Milder protests and offers of kindly offices having failed, it may be necessary for neighbors to take these forcible steps to bring to time the two nations that threaten to fight a useless war. Possibly the prospect of such radical action as the blockade of supplies may aid Paraguay and Bolivia in deciding to return to more peaceful means of settling their dispute.

HOW RECOVERY BEGAN

From the New York Times.

Seven weeks after the beginning of the present advance in prices of stocks, which has been more than 100 per cent, Wall street has begun to appraise the flood of buying orders which have been pouring into brokers' offices, bringing a succession of 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 share days to the stock exchange.

The consensus of bankers and brokers is that the rise is the result of the largest and most concentrated cash buying movement in the history of security markets. This view is based largely on the trend of brokers' loans, which have increased only $11,000,000 since July 6, although the market value of shares listed on the stock exchange alone has increased approximately $15,000,000,000 since the beginning of that month.

The violence of this buying movement has taken Wall street completely by surprise because it came at a time when most authorities believed the purchasing power and confidence of investors had been almost extinguished by a record decline of 34 months, in which 90 per cent of 1929 values of stocks had been erased.

In attempting to explain the sudden demand for securities, one broker remarked that the "forgotten man" had been buying. He said that within the last two or three weeks the branch offices of his firm had received $1,000,000 in currency, including a large amount of gold, and many $1,000 bills, from buyers of stocks. This money, he declared, evidently had been hoarded and was converted into stocks when sentiment improved. Of his firm's business during recent weeks, he said, orders for 200 shares or less composed 90 per cent of the total volume, indicating the important part which persons of average means are taking in the buying.

JUST FOLKS

THE CHANGE

A little less cream on the oatmeal each morning,
A little less fashion our bodies adorning,
A little less leisure, a little less madness,
A little less wild life we fancied was gladness,
A little less boasting, a little less fretting,
And it may be that back to our senses we're getting.

A little more thinking, a little less chatter,
Less money to do with, but what does it matter?
A little less roaming, a little less gaining,
A little more thought to our young people's training,
A little less freedom, a little less shirking,
A little less seeking rewards without working.

Conditions have altered! There's none who can doubt it,
There's something we've lost, but we'll get on without it,
A little less shamming and golden calf-slavery,
A little more wisdom, a little more bravery,
A little more thought for receipts and expenses,
And perhaps we are all getting back to our senses.

The Man Who Is Barefooted Feels No Sympathy for One Whose Shoe Pinches

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is gratuitous advice to people called "wets"—not bootleggers, drunkards and friends of vice, but those sober and responsible citizens who are horrified by the reign of racketeers, bandits and kidnapers and eager to overthrow the system that gives these criminals their power.

You blame prohibition for the hypocrisy, bribery and corruption that now disgrace your country. You see no hope of saving this civilization except by legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverage and thus depriving the lawless of their income and their power. To achieve this end you attack the eighteenth amendment, which makes all traffic in intoxicants illegal. The repeal of this amendment is your goal—the achievement on which your cause depends. If you secure repeal, your victory is complete. If you fail, your cause is lost. You have no other objective—no other hope. This will be Waterloo.

Why do you waste your energies in a fight that is hopeless? If you would save your country, why do you adopt the one method that must inevitably fail?

You hate prohibition because you live in the midst of the evils it has sponsored. But the people who are unaffected by these evils do not share your hatred.

The man who visits speakeasies, patronizes a bootlegger, rubs elbows with drunk boys at public dances and reads antiprohibition literature is certain that drinking has increased since liquor was outlawed.

The man who follows a plow or works in a country store, digs in his garden after supper and attends prayer meeting Wednesday night is equally certain that drinking is a thing of the past except in big towns.

People see what they wish to see, believe what they wish to believe, and read the things that support their convictions.

There are at least thirteen States in which the majority will vote against repeal. These thirteen can and will block every effort to legalize liquor. They hold the whip hand.

If other States are dominated by criminals, that is their own fault. Let them suffer for their sins. They shouldn't be so wicked.

Believe it or not, that is the situation. The country rules the town. And it glories in its power.

Here, then, is the advice. If you would save your own community from crime and corruption, find other means to do it. Rural regions, unharmed by prohibition, never will legalize liquor to please Sodom and Gomorrah.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Where Garner Stands.
New York Times.

Mr. Garner's letter of acceptance is a temperate Democratic campaign speech. Our Republican friends, who are trying to make him one of their main issues, are hard put to it to draw any comfort from his words. He is not ebullient or "fiery" or destructive or "radical" or anything else that he ought to be to correspond with the blood-freezing portrait of him that they wish to draw.

Mr. Garner stands on the Democratic platform with both feet. That is all that can be expected of a veteran Democrat. Economy is the one thing most needful. The Democrats promise a reduction of at least 25 per cent in expenditures. "Under a Democratic administration," Mr. Garner assures us, "that pledge will be redeemed." Well, it is always good to have a hopeful spirit. If the country could be as sure as Mr. Garner is of that redemption, the Republican goose would be cooked by a mighty quick fire.

Compliment to Roosevelt.
Louisville Courier Journal.

Senator Moses, objecting to Franklin Roosevelt's center-firing Columbus speech, tells us, through the Republican national committee, that "his remarks were all couched in terms of intelligence of the first grade of the public schools." The senator does not seem to be aware that he pays Roosevelt a rare compliment when he says that the Democratic nominee's speech was such that any school child could understand it. If the Republican nominee were master of such a style, and were willing to use it, perhaps his literary efforts, like his statement of his stand on prohibition, would not be such that nobody could understand them, or everybody could understand just as everybody wished to understand them.

Roosevelt's Columbus Speech.
Brooklyn Eagle.

A measure of the effectiveness of Gov. Roosevelt's Columbus speech is to be found in the attention given it by administration spokesmen. Even the State Department felt called upon to answer Mr. Roosevelt's indictment of Republican policy in relation to foreign loans.

Gov. Roosevelt was reading from the record when he indicted Mr. Hoover for encouraging loans abroad. He quoted directly from statements made by Mr. Hoover.

Other statements of the kind are to be found in the record, and, while it may be true that the State Department did not formally put its stamp of approval on billons lent abroad, Mr. Hoover's attitude seems clear enough.

Neither the administration nor the Democratic candidate has had the courage to deal realistically with this involved question of world economics. War debts, reparations and the tariff are all part of the problem. Politicians will not acknowledge this relationship.

Gov. Roosevelt's speech was admirable as far as it went. His indictment of Republican policies and practices was strong and in the main unanswerable. The reforms he proposed are all badly needed. The weakness of his speech was that it did not offer any concrete program for dealing with the broader aspects of the economic problem. His indictment and his proposed reforms are all right, but he did not suggest anything that would put a dozen men to work.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Foreign Lack of Knowledge of American Constitutional Limitations a Cause of Misunderstanding.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the signs of war flushing above the Far Eastern horizon, it seems to me our Government should take every precaution against hazardous misunderstandings in the matter of international conferences relating to disarmament and the promotion of world peace.

The precaution of chief importance would be to make other countries understand, in connection with any proposals which may be considered, that under our Constitution the power "to make war" is solely legislative, that our Chief Executive can make treaties only "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." While our Presidents have generally neglected to consult the Senate beforehand, it may do some good to note here that George Washington always sought "the advice" of the Senate in negotiating treaties.

It is my belief—shared, no doubt, by a large number of American thinkers—that the limited knowledge of European leaders in regard to the legislative check on executive authority under the American system, is what has brought loss of prosperity and all our woes as the niggardly aftermath of the war to prevent war.

I believe it would be worth while to instruct our diplomatic agents of every grade that hereafter one of their most important duties will be to furnish the capitals of the world with a proper understanding of the law-making and treaty-making requirements of the American Constitution. FEDERALIST.

Liquor Question Not the Real Issue, Says Observer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "The difference between Republican and Democratic proposals on the liquor question has been whittled down to such a fine point that Gov. Roosevelt finds it difficult to make this difference a political issue." This editorial statement in last Sunday's Post (August 28) is a hit, in baseball language, high up in the centerfield sun seats. Far too much oratory and newspaper space has been wasted on the plain question whether we shall retain, amend or repeal the eighteenth amendment.

American politics will reach about its lowest ebb if wet-dry talk continues to interfere with discussion of such issues as the tariff, economic readjustment and restoration of industrial activity.

Several days ago one of your correspondents expressed the opinion that ever since the ratification of the eighteenth amendment, wet-dry discussion has been altogether "academic." At first I didn't see much sense in it. But on second thought I presume what he meant was that the politicians, when forced to say something wet or dry, have not been quite sincere—have tackled the liquor question in a manner productive of a great deal too much perfunctory tommyrot.

I do not think Gov. Roosevelt any more than President Hoover was very well pleased to give likker the intemperate prominence they were forced by circumstances to give it. Now that we have been enlightened by the governor's perfunctory wet exegesis, let all hands, Republicans and Democrats, take off their coats, roll up their sleeves, and put their shoulders to the wheel in a strenuous American drive for prosperity in accordance with the will of the people as expressed at the presidential polls.

W. F. PERKINS.

British Veteran Suggests Free Trade as Solution of War Debt Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As the good of the individual is wrapped up in the good of all, may I humbly suggest that the best way to ensure American prosperity is to offer Europe cancellation of the war debt in exchange for a commercial treaty embodying a policy of free trade between the debtor nations and their creditor, America herself to become a free-trade country.

As the creditor nation, America could secure an agreement covering a period of say fifty to a hundred years, in which case the business interests of the civilized world would become so interlocked that the need for armaments would gradually disappear.

This suggestion springs from a sincere desire to see prosperity restored to humanity and I say with the greatest feeling and conviction that an agreement of this nature could not fail to restore prosperity to the American people. It would open up the markets of the world to American competition. It would lead to natural as opposed to artificial disarmament. It would preserve the dignity of America, enhance her prestige throughout the world, and win for her the eternal gratitude of mankind.

Great acts are the need of the hour and as America holds the key to setting the forces of prosperity in motion, she has an opportunity which may never be repeated.

ONE WHO FOUGHT FOR FREEDOM.

Foreigners Beating Americans, Who Worry About Beer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Here we are; some foreign country again beats us to a new achievement. Eckener pilots the first dirigible over the ocean, Piccard climbs to a height never reached by man, and now comes Mollison, the first man to cross the pond in the westward direction. Yes, sir, foreigners on the alert for doing things and all that we in this country are wasting our time about is whether we can get a glass of beer. Lindbergh heads them all, but he can't carry all America on his shoulders. Quit talking about liquor, boys, and get busy on some real achievement.

200 SCIENTISTS SET FOR TOTAL ECLIPSE

Thousands of Visitors Crowd Hotels Along Course of Official Observations.

Conway, N. H., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—About 200 astronomers are lining up tonight in a 350-mile path running from Montreal to the Maine coast to answer the question, "What does an eclipse mean?"

They will view the total eclipse of the sun which comes down from the North Pole across Canada and New England Wednesday afternoon, a football-shaped shadow, nearly 100 miles long and 60 miles across. This shadow will blot out the sun for 100 seconds in Canada and about 90 in Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, a corner of Massachusetts and Cape Cod.

In many towns they will work behind ropes, a protection against over-eager spectators whose advance reservations already have preempted all hotel space and many private homes, and who promise to arrive in droves, in addition for the day only by automobile and special trains.

Airplanes will fly aloft in the shadow as high as 5 miles. At least three of the scientific expeditions have arranged for observations from planes. Radio broadcasters will meet the shadow well northward in Canada and describe its passage second by second.

Japanese Expedition.

Tonight's count of expeditions totals 43, mostly from the United States, with a few from Europe and 1 from Japan. The total estimated expenses of the scientific expeditions alone bring the cost of observation to about $1,000 a second.

Virtually all this is a total loss if clouds obscure the sun. Yesterday was cloudy, today some parts of the total eclipse area were partly cloudy and others had rain; so that the astronomers are hopeful, according to past records, these early storms should be followed by better "seeing" by Wednesday.

The astronomers have set up a greater variety of instruments than ever before "shot" at an eclipse. Some are entirely new in eclipse work. New or old, they all seek answers to the question, "What does an eclipse mean?"

Only part of this question has been answered in all the past centuries. The "meaning" sought is more information about what's going on in the sun, the source of human health and food and, indirectly, the source of all physical life on earth.

Area of Partial Shadow.

The United States Naval Observatory at South Limington, Me., wants more accurate information about the positions of the sun and moon for use in refinements of keeping earthly time and estimating the size of the universe.

Outside the area of totality there will be a partial eclipse in every part of the United States. In the East the sun will be reduced to a crescent thin enough to change the color of daylight and bring a slight coolness to the air. From Midwest to the Coast the eclipse is only something to be looked at through smoked glasses.

It crosses New England at 3:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time), and at that hour will be at or close to its maximum everywhere else in the country.

In Virginia the eclipse will first become visible, according to astronomers' calculations, at about 2:30 and will reach its maximum of 87 per cent at 3:38 p. m. Thereafter the eclipse will wane, leaving the face of the sun at about 4:30.

CAPITAL PREPARES TO VIEW ECLIPSE

Three Washington expeditions—the Naval Observatory, Georgetown University and the National Geographic Society—have gone North to photograph the corona from points on the path of totality.

Father Paul A. McNally, director of the Georgetown University Observatory, is leading a group from that school. They are located at Fryeburg, Me. Included in the party are Father R. J. Kolkmyer, head of the physics department of Georgetown; Father Thomas D. Barry, of Georgetown, together with Father William R. Crawford, of Boston, and Father John Delaney, of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y.

The outstanding feature of this expedition will be an attempt by Father Kolkmyer to make a continuous automatic record of the intensity of the light of the corona. This is in furtherance of experimental work undertaken by the famous scientist, Father Wulf, of Valkenburg, Holland.

The Naval Observatory party is under the direction of Capt. C. H. J. Keppler, U. S. N., and Capt. Frederick Hellweg, superintendent of the Naval Observatory. They are located on a farm site near Limerick, Me., where they have built a 65-foot camera for photographing the corona. A number of astronomers and associate astronomers from the Navy Department are included in this party.

The National Geographic Society will make pictures of the eclipse from the ground and from an airplane. Capt. A. W. Stevens, internationally famous aerial photographer of the Army Air Corps, is in charge of the activities of the aerial branch of the expedition. He will fly in a plane piloted by Lieut. Charles D. McAllister, and will take his pictures from an altitude of more than five miles.

The ground activities of the eclipse expedition will be carried on at Fryeburg, Me., and will be in charge of Albert H. Bumstead, chief cartographer, and Charles Martin, chief of Photographic Laboratories of the National Geographic Society. Photographic studies will be made with a special camera built for the purpose by Mr. Bumstead, who invented the sun compass for Admiral Byrd's Polar flights.

Totality of this year's eclipse will be of about 100 seconds duration. It will be the last eclipse in which the belt of totality passes through the continental boundaries of the United States until 1970.

The last eclipse in this country was in April 1930, when the moon came between the earth and the sun for a period of two seconds, the phenomenon being visible only in California.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

President to Greet Mr. Havenga, of Africa.

PRESIDENT HOOVER WILL receive Mr. M. C. Havenga, M. P., minister of finance of the Union of South Africa, and Mrs. Havenga at the White House today. They will be presented by the South African minister, Mr. Eric H. Louw.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will leave today for Iowa, where she will speak at Shenandoah on Thursday. She will return to Washington Saturday. Mrs. Gann returned to Washington yesterday from Oakland, Me.

Two Christenings Held In Kendrick Home.

Senator and Mrs. John B. Kendrick held a christening ceremony for their two grandchildren at their home in Sheridan, Wyo., recently. The children were christened Eula Wulfjen Harmon, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Hubert Harmon; and John B. Kendrick, 2nd., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manville Kendrick, the latter formerly Miss Diana Cumming, daughter of the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service and Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming. The ceremony was followed by a tea for a large number of guests.

Representative and Mrs. Parker Corning have as their guests at Colorado Springs, Col. and Mrs. De Lancey Kountze, and Mrs. Tuckerman Draper of New York and Lord Barnby of London.

The First Assistant Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon have as their guests at Wardman Park Hotel, Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. Leach and their family, from New York. Mrs. Leach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon.

The Director General of the Pan-American Union, Dr. L. S. Rowe, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Pan-American annex, in honor of the newly appointed Charge d'Affaires of Chile, Senor Don Emilio Edwards Bello, and the retiring Charge, Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel. In addition to the guests of honor, those present were Mr. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State; Senor Don Mario Rodriguez, Secretary of the Chilean Embassy; Senor Don Carlos de la Barra, Commercial Secretary of the Chilean Embassy; Dr. E. Gil Borges, assistant director of the Pan-American Union; Mr. Benjamin Cohen, of Chile, secretary of the Guatemalan-Honduran boundary tribunal, and Mr. William Manger, chief of the division of financial information of the Pan-American Union.

Mr. M. C. Havenga, M. P., minister of finance of the Union of South Africa and leader of the South African delegation to the recent Ottawa conference, arrived in Washington last evening. He was accompanied by Mrs. Havenga, and they will be the guests of the South African Minister and Mrs. Eric Louw at the legation on New Hampshire avenue.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. C. P. Kindleberger are spending some time in Atlantic City.

David Brewer Karrick Marries New York Girl.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Anna de Blasiis, of Glens Falls, N. Y., to Mr. David Brewer Karrick, son of Mrs. James Lawson Karrick, of Washington, took place last evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Chapel of St. Ambrose, Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Talbot Rodgers.

Roses and white dahlias were used in the chapel and the ceremony was performed in candle light.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-lanw, Mr. Donald E. Beaver, of New York, and wore a white crepe gown made on empire lines, with a fitted lace jacket of duchess lace with long tight-fitted sleeves slightly puffed at the shoulder. She wore a white velvet turban and carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mr. James Lawson Karrick, jr., was the best man.

Only members of the families and a few close friends attended the wedding owing to the recent death of the bridegroom's father.

After the ceremony Mr. Karrick and his bride left on a wedding trip, the bride wearing a gown of brown wool crepe with a turban and other accessories to match. They will make their home at the Farnsboro, in this city.

Mrs. John J. Myers, of Berwick, Pa., accompanied by Mrs. Frank C. Love, of Syracuse, N. Y., are staying at Wardman Park Hotel.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Maude Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Miller, of Shanghai, China, and Mr. Louis M. Wolf, of Berrien Springs, Mich., which will take place in the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Takoma Park on Sunday night, September 11, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Miller is the president of the China Division Conference of Seventh Day Adventists and has just recently brought his family from the Orient to spend their furlough in Takoma Park. They are now residing at 311 Garland avenue. Before going to China, he was for eleven years medical director of the Washington Sanitarium.

The daughter, Miss Maude Miller, is a graduate from the Conservatory of Music of Emmanuel Missionary College, of Berrien Springs, Mich.

Ensign G. B. Chafee to Wed Birmingham (Ala.) Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. McCarty, of Birmingham, Ala., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Martha, to George Benedict Chafee, ensign, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Chafee, of New York and Washington.

Miss McCarty has many friends in Washington, as she is a recent graduate of Holton Arms.

Ensign Chafee is a member of the class of 1930, United States Naval Academy, and is now stationed at the naval air station, Pensacola, Fla.

The wedding will take place in September, in Birmingham.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry D. F. Munnikhuysen, with the latter's daughter, Miss Betty Burke, have returned to their apartment at Wardman Park Hotel, after spending the season at their summer home at Bellair, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Leesnitzer have returned from Atlantic City. Miss Mae Leesnitzer is visiting on Lake Champlain.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harris Wallace, who have been in Canada since early in August, are now at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Eugene Vidal passed the weekend with Counselor of the Argentine Embassy and Mme. Conrado Traverso at their cottage in Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schaffner will leave on Thursday for Columbus, Ohio, to attend the reunion of the 840th Aero Squadron of the World War, of which Mr. Schaffner was a member.

After the convention they will continue on to the West Coast and will spend the winter in Los Angeles. Their brother, William Earl Schaffner will accompany them.

Mrs. M. A. De Laney is spending the late summer at York Harbor, Me., and Gloucester, Mass., where she will be joined later by Maj. Gen. De Laney.

44 Air Corps Officers To Get Bomb Practice

(Associated Press.)

Forty-four officers from Army Air Corps units stationed in various parts of the continental United States will participate in the annual machine gun and bombing matches at Langley Field, Hampton, Va., beginning September 12.

The various features of this outstanding competition of the Air Corps training program are machine gun firing events for pursuit pilots, for observation and attack pilots and for observers of observation and attack squadrons, and the contest in which twelve officers, making up six teams, will vie for recognition as the most expert bombers of 1932.

FARM BOARD POLICY ON COTTON ASSAILED

Cooperative Marketing Wins Praise at Shannon Quiz on U. S. Competition.

New Orleans, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—Cooperative marketing of cotton was praised, but management and speculative policies of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, sponsored by the Federal Farm Board, were criticized today before the Shannon congressional committee investigating Government competition with private business.

Lawrence Westbrook, of Waco, Tex., said he resigned as a member of the board of directors of the cooperative association after the board failed to carry out a program of economy which he said he had promised the Texas cotton growers.

He said he believed cooperative marketing the "salvation" of the farmer, but that the Texas farmers are "disgusted with the Farm Board."

"No greater blow to cooperative marketing could have been delivered," he said, "than by this venture of the Federal Government through the agencies it selected." He declared the Government "lost prestige" in the minds of the Texas cotton growers.

Russell Clark, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, sharply criticized the association for commodity market speculation. He said its attempt to stabilize cotton prices was a "series of the most gigantic speculations ever attempted in the cotton industry."

"Such uneconomic, strong-armed methods, absolutely at variance with the law of supply and demand," he added, "were doomed in advance to failure." A large part of the funds supplied by Congress out of taxes paid by the people was lost, he added.

Mr. Clark said he advocated speculation "but that it should be carried on by those risking their own personal or corporate means." During cooperative speculation, he added, cotton prices declined from 18 cents to 4.95 cents a pound and cooperative activities forced private cotton firms out of business.

Harry R. Gould, president of the New Orleans Spot Cotton Merchants Association, testified the present upturn in the cotton market demonstrated that private speculation was "a price lifter," while the Farm Board is a "price depressor."

29TH DIVISION STAFF GETS WAR PROBLEM

Imaginary Enemy Lands After Having Beaten Off U. S. Fleet.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—An imaginary enemy, having beaten off the fleet that was defending Hampton Roads, had landed today and was stretched in a long line running almost north and south through Lynnhaven, between Norfolk and Virginia Beach.

The "invading force" was engaged at sea last night, and although suffering some casualties, was able to advance nearer the coast. About 2 a. m. today the enemy again attacked and landed men in waves.

These were beaten back by combined infantry and artillery resistance, but they overcame the counter-attack and landed early today. They were consolidating their position inland this afternoon and a battle will take place there tomorrow.

This, briefly, was the military problem confronting the Twenty-ninth Division National Guard staff, encamped at the State rifle range and Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding the Third Corps area, United States Army, arrived today to observe and assist.

Gen. Malone Lectures.

Brig. Gen. J. C. McClanahan, of Baltimore, commanding the Fifty-eighth Artillery Brigade, National Guard, also arrived at the encampment to participate in the problem with which the division staff is engaged.

Col. Fred Brown, in charge of National Guard affairs in the Third Corps Area, was another of the Regular Army officers on the ground. Gen. Malone lectured the staff this afternoon, after the "attack" of the day was finished and will deliver another lecture tomorrow morning.

All of the last week the division staff was engaged in mobilizing its forces in and around Virginia Beach, anticipating an attempt by the "enemy" to penetrate the coast near that point. The friendly fleet made contact with the enemy off Cape Charles last night and since that time a state of active fighting has existed theoretically, in the Hampton Roads area.

Battle Resumes Today.

The battle will be resumed tomorrow, the problem being to drive the enemy out of its stronghold around Lynnhaven. It is annual field work of the division staff, coming after weeks of work by officers of the staff at their home stations.

The marines, 1,200 strong, are engaged this week in target practice and in simulated battle tactics. Another sunset parade is scheduled for tomorrow at 6:30 p. m., with noncommissioned officers in command of the regiment.

Yesterday afternoon in the presence of several thousand visitors, the brigade was reviewed by Col. J. J. Meade, in charge of marine reserve activities at corps headquarters, Washington, who is heading the board of observers at the camp.

Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding the Twenty-ninth National Guard Division, also of Washington, whose staff is in training at the reservation, was also present.

The brigade breaks camp on Saturday, moving to Norfolk by special train over the Norfolk Southern and embarking on a Norfolk-Washington steamer at 5 p. m. for Washington.

Sunday the brigade will parade in the National Capital, when cups and other honors will be awarded. On Monday the brigade will parade in connection with a fireman's celebration.

Col. Staley today expressed himself as highly pleased with the progress of the training.

STRAIGHTENING OUT THE ROOSEVELT BRANCHES.

("Republican leaders say it is amazing how many people there are who think the Democratic candidate is a son of former President Theodore Roosevelt. There are some people who even confuse him with the famous 'Teddy.' As part of the campaign to combat this, the campaign managers will send out young Theodore Roosevelt, who has been called back from the Philippines."—News item)

I was having rest and quiet
In the distant Philippines
When I got a sudden summons
Home to old familiar scenes;
For a Roosevelt is running
For the White House and I mus'
Spread the message to the peepul
That he isn't one of us!

When a Roosevelt is running
In America take heed
That the one who asks your ballots
Is the one of proper breed;
There's the branch that springs from Teddy,
Soldier, stateman, rifle-shot—
And another branch, oh quite so,
Which most certainly does not!

There are Roosevelts of Hyde Park
And the ones of Oyster Bay;
But they're merely distant cousins—
(And the distance grows each day);
There's THE Roosevelt so famous,
Who in Africa did shoot—
And I call upon the voters
To accept no substitute!

We're the Roosevelts (the right ones)
And it gives me great delight
To inform the voting public
That we own the copyright;
We're the Roosevelts of Teddy—
We're the well beloved brood—
Don't let anybody tell you
Something else is "just as good!"

I am certain that the peepul
When they hear of Roosevelt
Get a picture of a fighter
With Rough Rider sword and belt;
In their mind they see a Teddy
And the stick with which he ruled,
So I'm home to do my utmost
To prevent their being fooled!

We're the Roosevelts—the right ones—
Who are famed as fighting men:
Writers, hunters, Bwano Tumboes,
Bearding lions in their den;
We're Republicans forever
And it stands to reason that
There is something wrong about one
Who could be a Demmycrat!

So, good people, I implore you
As you go to cast your votes
Read the label and make certain
What the trademark there denotes;
Heed the patent holder's warning
Which I broadcast through the land
That the Roosevelt called Franklin
Doesn't bear the "Colonel" brand.

For he's just a distant cousin
(And I'm giving you straight dope)
That we can not even see him
With a great big telescope;
Here's our final word of caution,
For the time is very ripe:
When you want a Roosevelter
GET THE COPYRIGHTED TYPE!

RECTIFYING AN OVERSIGHT.

The next New York City directory will list the names and residences of wives. In times like these it is important that men be able to find where their mates are living.

Miss Eleanor Holm, most beautiful of the girl swimming champions, has been signed for the movies. Suggestion for her first picture? Holm, Sweet Holm.

P. G. K. suggests that Al Smith was prompted to grab that job as a magazine editor because, as manager of the Empire State Building, he had so many stories on his hands.

A PLAY-BY-PLAY description of the opening game of the American Legion junior world series, at Manchester, N. H., will be carried over an extensive NBC network, including WRC, today. The second game, tomorrow, will not be broadcast because of the eclipse of the sun, which will be described at the same hour. If a third game is necessary to decide the championship, it will be broadcast over WRC at 2 p. m., on Thursday, September 1.

Jessica Dragonette, favorite radio soprano of thousands of listeners, will return to the air after her first extensive vacation in five years, as the featured artist of the Cities Service hour on Friday night.

Gene and Glenn will begin their third season of broadcastings as the Quaker Early Birds (WRC, 8 o'clock) this morning. The team of Gene and Glenn, in private life, consists of Gene Carroll and Glenn Rowell. They started in the show business early and were among the first to combine radio work with stage appearances.

ARTHUR TRACY, the "Street Singer," has chosen "Silver Moon," from "My Maryland," "It Was So Beautiful," "Rosary" (sung in German), "Old Refrain" and "Voice in the Old Village Choir," for his program (WMAL, 9 o'clock) tonight. Nat Shilkret will lead his orchestra in special arrangements of "Estrellita" and "Down the Street."

"Labor Day Nite" is the designation for Radio Joe's broadcast (WMAL) 6:30 tonight. The fifteen minutes will be devoted to the organized labor movement of Washington. R. A. Dixon, president of the Central Labor Union, will speak briefly. He will probably be introduced by John B. Colpoys, former president of the Trades Unionist, of this city.

In answer to numerous requests, Frank Crummit will sing his own composition, "Donald, the Dub," as a highlight of the program on which he is cofeatured with Julia Sanderson (WRC, 7 p. m.). Julia will sing "Where the Rainbow Ends" and "One Little Quarrel With You."

RICHARD GORDON, radio actor, is probably best known on the air as Sherlock Holmes, in the Conan Doyle dramatizations. But, paradoxically enough, Gordon almost invariably plays the part of a master crook or murderer in the Lucky Strike police dramatizations. There will be another of the latter at 9 o'clock tonight via WRC.

Howard Barlow's symphony concert program for tonight (WMAL) 10 o'clock, includes the overture to "Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn); second movement from "Symphony, No. 2, in D major" (Haydn); "Reverie" De Bussy), and Ride of the Valkyries from "Die Walkure" (Wagner).

Denver, Aug. 29 (A.P.).—The International Federation of Catholic Alumni in biennial session here today reaffirmed its stand for modesty in dress. "Styles that fashion decree too often contradict the ideals of Catholic womanhood," the resolution set forth, and the delegates pledged themselves by their example to "counteract this great evil."

Mrs. Philip A. Brennan, of Brooklyn, is unopposed for reelection as president. Three candidates are in the field for vice president, Mrs. Alfred C. Whitton, of Washington, D. C., at present second vice president; Mrs. W. H. Connell, jr., of Pittsburgh, now treasurer, and Mrs. George T. McQuade, of Freeport, Long Island, N. Y., a trustee.
